Congress Studies Price Dip

Will Seek Meaning Of Trend

Commodities, Stocks Drop

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Congress set out yesterday to study how far price and employment drops are going to go.

The Senate - House joint economic committee scheduled public "round-table discussions" beginning Tuesday — calling in first agriculture and economic experts.

The committee wants to find out if the decline in jobs and prices is merely a postwar adjustment, or a warning of a possible general depression, Senator O'Mahoney (D.-Wyo.) said. He is chairman of the group.

Prices of stocks, cotton, lard and some other commodities tumbled again Saturday, continuing a trend which started earlier in the week.

Stocks in New York fell again in the sharpest loss since the day after the presidential election. Declines ran from a few cents to more than $3, in the wake of extreme losses of $5 Friday. Many issues hit new lows for the past year or for longer periods.

On Friday $800,000,000 was chopped off the market value of all shares. Saturday an additional $1,200,000,000 was lopped off.

NAILS DOWN DECLINE

Action of stocks nailed down a general decline which began in such basic commodities as grain, livestock, butter, eggs and cotton. It is a decline which has been going on for several months, but which picked up momentum in the present week.

Drops in commodity prices had a repetitious appearance, for it was just one year ago this week that the big post-war break hit grains and spread to other commodities.

The one big difference from last year was that this time the price slump came from levels which, to begin with, were lower than in 1948. Nor were the declines as sharp as last year.

Also, last year prices were far above the points at which the government was pledged to step in and support the market. This year prices of some commodities, particularly grains, had slipped through that support level as if it didn't exist.

Many markets were closed yesterday, but there were enough open to send the Associated Press index of 35 wholesale commodity prices to a new two-year low at 167.95. That compared with 175.97 a month ago and 193.68 a year ago.

New Cold Blasts Hit West

(By Associated Press)

New wind gusts swooped into the South Dakota-Nebraska - Wyoming disaster area Saturday, churning up ground snow and hampering rescue work.

Visibility dropped to zero at Rapid City, S. D., as north wind velocity reached 41 miles per hour. At Chardon, Neb., gusts of 30 miles per hour were reported in mid-afternoon, blowing snow which sifted into freshly cut roadways. A 40-mile wind hit Sinclair, Wyo., and visibility was cut by snow to one half mile.

Colder weather was moving into the area with the winds, sharpening the already bitter temperatures. To the north, the Saturday daytime readings did not go above four below zero at Grand Fork, N. D., and two below at Bismarck, N. D.

Elsewhere, the nation's weather was comparatively mild in the Ohio valley and the east, rainy along the gulf—except Florida which had warm, somewhat humid conditions — and chilly on the west coast.

Winds diminished in the Nevada - Utah area where light snow fell. The air force haylift continued operations in this area where its C-82 flying boxcars have scattered more than 817 tons of hay to sheep and cattle herds over 300,000 square miles.

CROSSES ROCKIES

The new winds which hurdled the Rockies were part of the storm which whistled in on the west coast Friday, blowing a blizzard into Donner pass in the California Sierras and blocking highways.

Shortly before the new weather hardship hit the snowbound plains expanse, the Fifth army reported that its drift-fighting operation had reached 25,131 persons, 550,740 cattle and 95,440 other farm animals during the first week. There are an estimated 3,791,000 cattle in the tri-state emergency area, and livestock losses were estimated to range from two to nine per cent there.

Though some packing has taken place, snow depths still ranged from 12 to 16 inches, with drifts of several feet piled near every hummock, fence, tree and building.

Elsewhere in the mid-continent, there was light snow in Montana, Iowa, and Minnesota, and temperatures rose slowly over Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma. It was warming along the gulf coast, too, with mercury ranging during the day from the low 50's in Louisiana to 65 at Jacksonville, Fla. Miami's temperature in mid - afternoon reached 84 with humidity a shade over 50.

HEAT BRINGS ON BRAINSTORM—When Harry Mehock (left) and Stanley Kamen (right) plan ice skating contests, they mean it 'weather or'—even if they are forced to have a private match of their own on frozen blocks in the local ice plant. It seems the weather just won't stay cold long enough to arrange hot skating contests. But the two directors haven't given up. Mehock said last night his sixth annual public school contest, in which 300 youngsters are entered, will be held on the first good (cold) day. Kamen reported the second annual N-J Silver Skates match will be held up until after Mehock's contest. Both events were originally scheduled three weeks ago.

Labor Law Causes Tiff

'Shut Your Mouth,' Neely Tells Taft

WASHINGTON— (AP) —The senate labor committee climaxed eight hours of public squabbling last night with Senator Neely (D.-W. Va.) roaring "You keep your mouth shut" to Senator Taft (R.-Ohio).

Thus ended the sixth day of one of the bitterest hearings in recent Senate history — a hearing on the Taft-Hartley act and the Truman administration's proposal to replace it with a new labor law.

During the long day and evening:

1. Democrats accused Republicans of dragging out the hearings to make it impossible to finish by the Feb. 10 deadline they have fixed.

2. Senator Aiken (R.-Vt.) shot back that the Democrats were treating the proposed bill purely as "a political measure."

3. Senator Murray (D.-Mont.) angrily accused a witness—Gerard D. Reilly, who helped write the Taft-Hartley act—of "double crossing labor," and said Reilly "got in here on false pretenses."

Just before last night's 10 p. m. closing time, Neely said he had not heard Taft use the word "blackguard" but had read it in a newspaper.

Neely: "If he said that, he shamefully violated the rules of the Senate."

Taft: "I—"

Neely: "I have the floor. You keep your mouth shut until I get through."

Taft: "I meant to say bulldoze. If I said blackguard, I withdraw it and ask that it be retracted from the record."

Neely said, "Very well, I accept the apology" and indignantly left the room.

Wife Couldn't Bear Bare House

CLEVELAND —(AP)— A youthful wife has a five-room unfurnished apartment on her hands, but she is not happy about it.

Mrs. Josephine Vespucci, 20, told Assistant Police Prosecutor John T. Bilinski Saturday that her husband, Thomas, 22, left her in it when he moved out all the furniture, turned off the gas and light, and went home to his parents. Bilinski said Vespucci was ordered to appear Monday for a hearing.

Fear Outbreak In Summer

Officials Cite Need For Polio Funds

With Richland county's 1949 drive for funds to aid the Infantile Paralysis Foundation showing prospects of dropping far behind the goal of $8,000, officials of the Foundation and Dr. Harry Wain, city-county health commissioner, yesterday painted a gloomy picture of what may be in store for this area when the polio season arrives next summer.

Less than $4,000 has been contributed so far in the county drive. That represents only a $2,000 fund on hand for relief of stricken polio cases in the county, since one-half of the amount raised here goes to the National Foundation for research, education, and aid to epidemic-stricken sections. The 1949 campaign in the county closes Friday.

According to Dr. Wain, once poliomyelitis has made its appearance in a community and the virus has been seeded, that community can look forward to sporadic attacks. He said the cases in 1947 and 1948 showed a definite increase over past years.

"While there is no way of predicting the degree of severity with which our community may be hit in the future, we can be sure that we will continue having polio cases. The area is suspect and we should be fore-warned and fore-armed with all the facilities and funds as well as plans to meet any possible emergency which may occur," the commissioner said.

MANY INFECTED

Dr. Wain said poliomyelitis is strictly a virus infection, and from 80 to 90 per cent of the people have, at one time or another, been infected by the polio virus. However, it is thought by many medical men that until the virus has penetrated certain nerve cells, the attacks can be safely diagnosed as "influenza".

Ousted Mayor Jumps Up at Count of 9

POMEROY —(AP)— Delmar A. (Kayo Kid) Canaday got up at the count of nine Saturday and strode back to the center of the ring in what appears to be the last round of his fight to retain his job as mayor of Pomeroy.

The former prizefighter filed a demurrer in Meigs County Common Pleas court to show cause why he shouldn't be counted out.

Canaday's objection was filed just before deadline when an injunction keeping him out of the mayor's chair would have become permanent.

The wise - cracking former West Virginia welterweight champ claimed the court has no jurisdiction to order an injunction.

The vigorous mayor said the key to the "whole legal mess" was his resignation last November while under suspension from office on an order from Gov. Thomas J. Herbert.

"I couldn't legally resign," Canaday said. "I couldn't do anything while I was suspended."

Canaday added:

"I resigned in order to outsmart him (Gov. Herbert). If I hadn't resigned, he would have suspended me permanently."

Sentence Cardinal Tuesday

Court Adjourns Treason Hearing

BUDAPEST — (AP) — Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, facing a possible death sentence, asked last night that the love of his church be extended to the state which is trying him for treason.

In his final plea the cardinal said: "May the Lord give wisdom to the court when they pass their sentence, which may help a settlement at home and abroad."

Final summations were made for the cardinal and his six co-defendants. Presiding Judge Vilmos Olthys then adjourned the trial until Tuesday, when the verdicts will be announced.

The prosecutor of communist-dominated Hungary demanded a "hard" sentence — meaning death by hanging—for all the defendants. The defense attorneys asked for leniency but not for acquittal.

Kalman Kicko, attorney for the Roman Catholic primate, reminded the five-man peoples' court that its decision would be discussed for the next century.

REGRETS CONFLICT

In his final 15-minute plea the cardinal expressed regret that he had come in conflict with the laws of Hungary.

"I brought the love of my church to this courtroom and beg for this love for the Hungarian state to which I have shown my obedience here," the cardinal said. "I also beg for this love for myself and may the Lord give wisdom to the court when they pass their sentence which may help a settlement at home and abroad."

2 Identify Parolee

Farmer, Wife Name Man Held By Sheriff

An OSR parolee, captured by sheriff's deputies early yesterday after he entered the farm house of J. M. Oney, north of Mansfield on State Route 13, has been identified by Oney and his wife, Deputy Sheriff Foster Palmer, who investigated, said yesterday.

The suspect is Elmer E. Swanger, about 29, who was released from the reformatory on parole last Jan. 13. He was sentenced from Stark county to one to five years for breaking and entering in the day season, and received at the reformatory Sept. 19, 1947. He has been working in Mansfield.

Oney fired two shots at the suspect after he fled from the house about 3:50 a. m. yesterday. The man entered the house to obtain the keys to Oney's car, Palmer said. No charge had been filed in the case last night.

The car the parolee was driving had run out of gas there. He was captured a short while later in a car near the Oney house.

The vehicle had been stolen Friday night in Mansfield, deputies said.

In another case, deputies said a 16-year-old and two 17-year-old boys were released to their parents, but were ordered in Monday for further investigation in the burglary of the Garden Acre grocery on Ward avenue, early Friday.

Ceiling Falls At Logical Moment

CRISFIELD, Md. — (AP) — About 400 residents of Somerset county gathered in the high school auditorium last night to discuss the district's school needs.

A. Wellington Tawes, president of the Crisfield bank, made a motion that the school board be requested to float a $1,500,000 bond issue for school improvements.

Just then from the next room came the loud crash of plaster falling from the ceiling. The entire audience jumped up to unanimously second the motion.

Man Fatally Shot on North Main

Suspect Nabbed Soon After Slaying

Clayton Luckie, about 30, was shot and killed about 10:30 last night in front of 224½ North Main street.

Police said they were holding a suspect who was apprehended shortly after the slaying.

Dr. D. C. Lavender, county coroner, said Luckie was shot three times, once in the neck and twice in the leg.

According to witnesses, several other shots were fired. There were two bullet holes in a car parked in front of the building.

It is believed that Luckie either walked or ran down from the second floor of 224½ North Main street and was shot by his assailant just as he was leaving the building, apparently after a quarrel.

Police said Luckie was still alive when they arrived, in answer to an anonymous call at 10:29 p. m., but he was dead upon arrival at General hospital.

Dr. Lavender said early this morning that he had not performed an autopsy and was awaiting the arrival of County Prosecutor Harold Lutz for instructions.

All available patrolmen were rushed to the scene of the shooting and police formed a cordon around the area while Identification Officer Paul Martin photographed the scene.

Soviet Fliers Decide They Like Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. —(AP)— Peter Pirogov and Anatol Barsov, escaped Russian fliers, started on a whirlwind tour of historic Richmond yesterday but slowed to a complete stop when a department store brought out some models in an upper-floor salon.

Reporters, banking their questions off interpreters, were given replies of amazement and pleasure. A $75 tweed suit would be about $1,080 rubles in Russia, Pirogov said with a shake of his head—about two months' salary for a laboring man.

Pirogov and Barsov were taken to the store to buy shirts, and the store decided it would present the flyers with shirts.

"They didn't speak any English at all," said a salesgirl, "but they managed to select shirts that cost $10 each."

Pirogov and Barsov heard Virginia praised on a "Voice of America" broadcast. The program sparked them to a personal airlift in a "borrowed" Soviet plane across the iron curtain.

British Deny Selling 'Aid'

LONDON —(AP)— The British government, following an investigation, denied Saturday charges by economic cooperation administration that Britain had been reselling Marshall aid aluminum in the U. S. scrap metal market.

In December, ECA officials in Washington asked Britain, Belgium and the Netherlands to halt such sales of aluminum. Belgium and the Netherlands have already denied the charges.

The ministry of supply announced that a joint investigation with ECA officials had shown no aluminum was exported from Britain to the U. S. as scrap.

Opposes Atlantic Accord

Warns Nation Against Allies

LONDON (Sunday)—(AP) — Russia offered a non-aggression pact to Norway today after tacitly warning the Scandinavian country against joining an Atlantic pact with the United States and western Europe.

The Soviet ambassador to Norway handed Dr. Halvard Lange, Norwegian foreign minister, a note Saturday containing the offer, the Moscow radio said in a broadcast heard in London.

On Jan. 29 Russia asked Norway's attitude toward the Atlantic pact, pointing out that the two countries had a common frontier. Norway's reply was made Feb. 1.

The latest Russian note said the Soviet Union could not agree with Norway that the Atlantic pact would meet the aims of the United Nations.

FLAYS PACT

Russia declared the nations envisioned as members of the Atlantic pact "is a restricted grouping of states which do not aim at consolidating peace and international security."

The projected pact would include the United States, Canada, Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. Norway, Denmark and other nations have been spoken of as joining it.

The Soviet note said Norway's Feb. 1 reply contained a "suggestion that the threat of attack could emanate from the Soviet Union." Russia said such a suggestion "is void of any foundation" and bespoke her friendly attitude toward Norway.

The note said Russia "in order to eliminate any doubt as to the intentions of the USSR proposes to the Norwegian government the conclusion of a non-aggression pact with the USSR and thus to put an end to any doubts."

Dr. Lange left Norway for Washington yesterday shortly after the Moscow radio said he received the Soviet note.

In Washington he will discuss with American officials Norway's inclusion in the proposed Atlantic pact.

Crash Hurts 3 In Family

Four persons were injured, one seriously, in two traffic accidents in the Mansfield area yesterday.

A soldier, his wife and two-year-old son were injured when their car was involved in a accident with a truck at the intersection of U. S. Routes 250 and 224, five miles east of Greenwich. They were taken to Mansfield General hospital.

The serviceman's wife, Mrs. Minnie Didusko, 27, of Detroit, Mich., was reported in "poor condition" with a fractured leg, a possible skull fracture and multiple lacerations.

Her husband, M/Sgt. Andrew Didusko, 30, stationed at Selfridge field, Mich., and their son, Andrew jr., two, were reported in good condition.

Otis Banks, 60, of 257½ North Main street, was treated and released at General hospital yesterday for head lacerations suffered when he was struck by a car as he was crossing North Park street at Diamond street.

Police said Banks was hit by Elmer Nickles, Mansfield R.D. 2, as Nickles turned west into North Park street from North Diamond street. Nickles was charged with driving a motor vehicle with insufficient brakes.

In Shelby city hospital, Charles Lehman, of Shiloh, injured yesterday in an automobile accident, was reported in good condition. He was unconscious for more than 12 hours after the accident.

Red Conspiracy In the U.S.A.

Spy Hunter Nears Big Game; Slapped In 1-A

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the eighth article of a series examining the communist conspiracy in the United States.)

By ROBERT STRIPLING
(Edited by Bob Considine)

The last two cases I investigated for the House un-American activities committee before I was "shanghaied" into the army (as one commentator put it) dealt with Mrs. Earl Browder and the CIO's Political Action committee.

It was highly diversified investigating work. Its chief fruit was my somewhat curious induction and unusual, let us say, treatment in the army.

Raissa Browder, a communist from Russia, entered the United States illegally in 1933. She was eventually held deportable but, for reasons not quite clear to me, remained in this country. Then in 1944 whoever was advising her recommended that she go to Canada briefly and make formal application for a U. S. visa, so that she would be eligible for U. S. citizenship.

In time she appeared with her attorney, Carol Weiss King (later Gerhart Eisler's attorney), at our consulate in Montreal. The examining officer there ruled she was a communist and therefore not eligible for a visa.

Shortly after that decision a U.S. vice consul appeared at Chairman Dies' office in Washington and stated that unusual pressure had been put on the consulate at Montreal to reconsider Mrs. Browder's case.

He added that he had left the consulate in disgust when the State department, reversing a traditional willingness to let consular officers on the scene decide on the fitness of visa applicants, issued direct orders to the Montreal consulate to issue Mrs. Browder a visa.

At Dies' request, I asked the State Department and was told that our informant was suffering from a nervous breakdown, and that he had been given an indef-

Stork Arrives, So Mother Aids Doctor

Holds Flashlight During Birth In Car

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Mrs. Charles Hines, 20-year-old suburban Carnegie woman, held a flashlight for a physician who delivered her first baby last night in the family auto.

Hines was driving his wife to Haddon Maternity hospital when it became apparent the stork was winning the race. He spotted a doctor's office and pulled to the curb.

Dr. Stanley P. Balcercak wasn't in but his receptionist put in a hurried telephone call for him.

Five minutes after he arrived, a six-pound, 12-ounce girl was born in the auto with Mrs. Hines' flashlight furnishing the only illumination.

Hines resumed the trip to the hospital, this time with a police escort. Hospital officials said the tot and Mrs. Hines "are doing just fine."

The new father was still nervous three hours after the birth. Explaining why he didn't hold the flashlight, he said:

"Everything happened fast and I sure was nervous. When the doctor arrived he just took one look at me and said 'Just stand still and let your wife hold the flashlight.' I did just that. Phew, I'm glad it's all over, and my wife and baby are okay."

Black Market Again Booming In Germany

BERLIN—(AP)—The black market is booming again in western Germany, lapping up grain and meat and threatening an acute food shortage.

Despite bumper crops and heavy grain imports, some slashes in the bread ration are being announced. American officials say crop failures this year would enmesh western Germany in a food crisis.

And they warn the Germans that the upsurge of black marketing in food products will retard western Germany's recovery—a keystone of the European recovery program—by hoisting prices and spawning new shortages.

Philip J. Raup, director of U. S. military government's food and agriculture group, says:

"The black market is a degree of luxury that Germany cannot afford. The Germans are behaving as if they were in good condition. Germany does not yet appreciate that she is poor.

"The food situation is infinitely worse here than in England. Yet the Germans are eating better than the English. Better bakery products, for example, are on sale in western Germany today than in London."

Grain needed for bread is being poured into livestock for sale on the black market, he points out. Grain is seeping into the black market for milling as white bread. (Only one-fifth of the official bread ration is in white).

Farmers are feeding grain to chickens and peddling the eggs on the black market. Raup says. Other farmers are holding back their grain in the hope of getting higher prices later. Last October German officials granted a 25 per cent increase in grain prices.

In Bavaria, American military government officials say 3,000 tons of meat disappeared into the black market in three months. And some German officials estimate as much as 100,000 tons of meat slithered into illegal channels in western Germany last year.

How much grain is being diverted from human mouths to animals?

Raup estimates 10 per cent of the total grain crop. And western Germany's grain production is approaching the good prewar average of about 5,000,000 metric tons.

Grain delivery quotas to the states on the 1948 crop were set at only 25 per cent above last year despite the 40 per cent larger crop.

On top of its excellent harvest, western Germany is receiving $980,000,000 of food imports in the year ending June 30, 1949. This includes 3,450,000 tons of bread grain imports alone.

Six per cent of these food imports were paid for with German exports. But for 94 per cent western Germany has not had to give up anything in return. They were paid for by the American and British governments or were brought in under the European recovery program.

So western Germany is impaled on this dilemma: an excellent crop year, moderate delivery quotas for crops, a heavy volume of grain imports and—some cuts in the bread ration with more in prospect.

And the average German can't be sure of getting even his official bread and meat ration.

Arkansas Lawyer Wrestles Big Budget

Frank Pace, 36, Youngest Director In Office's History

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A 36-year old lawyer from Arkansas will mesh the financial gears of this country's biggest peacetime budget machine.

He is Frank Pace jr., President Truman's new director of the budget and the youngest man to hold that job since its creation in 1921. He has been assistant director for the past year.

Pace looks nothing like you'd expect. His six foot, two inch height and tidy waist-line suggest the athlete, not the fiscal expert. His forehead is high and he has a habit of smoothing away its wrinkles when talking seriously. His full head of black hair grows close around prominent ears.

As top man in the bureau of the budget, Pace will advise the President how to resolve the spending plans of all government agencies into an integrated program within the planned 241,900,000,000 outlay for next year. Former Budget Director Daniel Bell calls the $10,000-a-year job the third biggest in the executive branch.

Pace was in Florida recovering from an operation when President Truman phoned him to ask whether he'd accept the job.

His close friends aren't surprised that the huge responsibilities of planning our fiscal policies should be given to a man so young and with so little actual business experience. They have watched him move up the success ladder with amazing agility.

He was graduated from high school at 14 and could have gone on to college.

"But my parents thought I was a little immature for college right then," he recalled. "They sure were right."

So he went to preparatory school for two years, then to Princeton university for four and Harvard law school for three. He took his law degree in 1936.

College friends say they remember him not as an especially serious student but as an extrovert with a keen golfing eye.

After law school he turned down two lucrative New York law jobs and went to work for the state of Arkansas as an assistant district attorney.

What propelled him into public service and away from the high pay of a well entrenched law firm?

"I don't rightly know if I can answer that sensibly," he told me. (His voice, in spite of nine years in east coast schools, carries all of Arkansas in it.) "It was just a conviction that seemed to grow with me."

Pace has an almost fanatical belief in service to the community, state and nation. To make democracy work, he says earnestly, all citizens have an obligation to give what they can. And almost all citizens, he thinks, can give something.

In 1939 he became general counsel for the Arkansas state department of revenue. When only 27 he came to Washington to argue a case before the U. S. Supreme court (which he lost, 5-4).

Three years as general counsel made him an expert on tax law. He left the job to go into the Army's air transport command as personnel staff officer, leaving service as a major. Three and a half years later he was back in tax work, this time as a special assistant to Attorney General Tom Clark. He worked on civil tax matters, writing briefs and arguing cases before the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

That job lasted only six months, when he became executive assistant to Postmaster General Robert Hannegan, the top administrative job in the post office department. Here he got his first taste of national politics, and he says he got it from an expert. Hannegan was chairman of the Democratic national committee at the time.

He stayed in the job when Jesse Donaldson replaced Hannegan as post master general and represented this country at several international postal conferences.

Pace says he has never had time to worry about a 40-hour week and figures he will average about 70 hours a week in his new job. That may cut into his "cooling-off" periods. A cooling period is 18 holes of golf or a few sets of tennis.

Canadians Considering Use Of Jet-Propelled Airliners

TORONTO, ONT. —(AP)—Canada may become the first country to use jet-propelled airliners in regular intercity passenger service.

Canadian experts say this country's wide expanses and relatively uncrowded airports are ideally suited to jet transports. And the first of these designed from the outset for commercial use is scheduled for test this spring.

The plane is the C-102 jetliner designed and built by A. V. Roe Canada Ltd., at its Malton plant near here. Planned to cruise high above the weather at 400 miles an hour, it's a metal low wing monoplane looking much like the ordinary airliner.

It uses a tricycle type landing gear, has a wingspan of 98 feet 1 inch and is 82 feet 5 inches long. It is powered by four Rolls Royce Derwent 5-jet engines. It has special de-icing equipment against Canada's bitter winters. And it is designed to carry from 36 to 40 passengers in a cabin pressurized to keep them comfortable at heights of five to seven miles.

It's normal range is figured for hops of around 400 to 600 miles or so since it is to be used in inter-city, rather than overseas, service.

M. D. Miller, assistant sales and service manager of A. V. Roe Canada, says the company hasn't yet any firm orders for producing the jetliner. And it won't try for any until it's been fully tested this spring. But it is known that the company consulted with Canada's government-owned Trans-Canada airlines when it began the designs.

Says Crickets Cure Insomnia

ATLANTA, Ga. — (AP) — Crickets are putting people to sleep in these parts. That's what W. E. Voellinger of Macon, Georgia, says. He runs a cricket hatchery.

Time was when he sold the critters mostly for bait. Now he is putting them in little boxes for folks to hang near their beds. It's a sure cure for insomnia, he says.

He puts about 50 crickets in the sleep boxes. Listening to their music is lots better than counting sheep, his customers tell him.

MORTAR DAMAGE

The mortar between bricks or concrete blocks in walks and outdoor steps is frequently loosened by successive freezing and thawing. This should be examined after a thaw and repaired immediately especially if steps have been damaged.

Wingate on Building

Partitions Fitted to Needs

By HENRY J. WINGATE
Architectural Engineer

Partitions are of two types, load-bearing and non-bearing. The load-bearing type supports construction of the house above it, such as another partition on the floor above, knee-wall studs which help carry the roof. The non-bearing partition only separates rooms, performs no important structural function.

Until recently, load-bearing partitions were 4 to 6 inches thick, studs spaced 16 inches apart, and engineered to carry maximum loads. Non-bearing partitions were often theinner with studs 24 inches apart, but in general the rule was to make all partitions of the same strength and construction.

LOWER COSTS POSSIBLE

With the advent of new materials and techniques and the desire of builders to trim costs wherever possible without sacficing structural soundness, thinner partitions of both types are gaining in use, where building codes will permit.

Even where laws require extra heavy loadbearing partitions, the thinner, money-saving nonbearing partitions are being extensively used.

These are not over 3 inches thick, being framed with 2x2 studs spaced 24 inches apart. Stronger, better buidling boards provide rigidity for this light construction. Wall finish is applied to the building board.

There is a wide choice of good materials now available for partition construction, and some builders are reporting cost reductions of about $25 for each partition of the lighter construction.

Kitchen Units Standardized

Standardized sizes for kitchen cabinets and other equipment now make it easy to modernize any kitchen by fitting units together into a unified whole Every inch of space is thus utilized.

Cabinet units are now available with counter-tops a standard 25¼" from front to back and 36" above the floor; widths of base and wall cabinets increase by multiples of 3" from 12" to 39". Widths of ranges are standardized at 20, 42 and refrigerator widths, 25, 30 and 32". Side-by-side laundry tubs are 24" deep, 42" wide.

INSECTS AND PAINT

One-quarter ounce of citronella added to each gallon of paint will keep insects away from freshly painted surfaces.

HOME OWNERS' QUESTION BOX

1. How much fuel does the government say is wasted in the average home?
2. Where it cost 4½ cents to lay a brick before the war, how much does it cost now, including material and labor?
3. How long should one wait between coats of paint?
4. What is a board foot of lumber?
5. What is the name given sheet metal used on roof valleys and around chimneys?
6. What kind of coupling permits plumbing pipes to be disconnected without disturbing adjoining sections?
7. What is the name of the small diagonal braces tetween studs or joists?
8. What is a coping?
9. What is the beam called which runs horizontally between roof rafters?
10. What is toe-nailing?

1—About one-third. 2—17 cents. 3—At least 2 days. 4—144 square inches thirteen-sixteenth inches thick. 5—Flashing. 6—Union joint. 7—Bridging. 8—Top masonry wall-finish to shed water. 9—Collar-beam. 10—Nails driven at an angle.

Advises Check On Insurance

Before making alterations, home-owners are advised by insurance companies to check their policies and make sure the changes are permitted.

It is possible to void a policy with such apparently simple changes as installation of additional electric wiring, the relocation of a fuel oil tank, a change in type of heating fuel used or even the construction of a porch.

If there is any question, consultation with the insureance agent is recommended before starting work. If it develops that the planned alteration is prohibited, a rider can usually be attached to the policy and a method of safeguarded construction suggested by the agent that will conform to the existing policy, or a new contract written at a slight increase in premium.

STRENGTH IN FLOORS

Sub-floors should be laid diagonally, and added bracing strength is given if the first-story diagonal direction is reversed on the floor above.

FINGER-MARKED WALLS

Finger marks can be removed from wallpaper by dampening the stained area with cold water and dusting on a little powdered pipe clay or fuller's earth. After a few minutes, brush off the powder. If the spots are greasy, cover with a clean blotter and press with a hot iron, finishing up with the powder treatment.

Charley Stine:

County Play Is Upon Us

That season of the year when Pa does the milking right after dinner, ma packs supper in a basket, and then the whole family spends several hours freezing outside a gymnasium door is upon us once again.

It's county tournament time and only the county or state fair in the fall can compare the excitement it stirs up in the rural areas.

Tournament play begins this week in neighboring Ashland county, and next week in Morrow and Crawford counties. Dates are well enough scattered that fans can see parts of all jousts and still have time for the Richland county tourney the last of the month.

STINE

Ashland county play opens Thursday with Perrysville and Savannah, co-favorites, both in action. Morrow county drawings are set for Saturday and Edison, Johnsville and Sparta will all expect to have a chance in the joust which opens Feb. 18.

The Morrow tournament is unique in that it has a reserve tournament and utilizes three floors in order to allow more people to see their favorites in action. Games will be played at Iberia, Johnsville, and Eidson.

★

Adding to the already packed schedule of the frustrated basketball fan is the City A league championship playoff set for Feb. 14 and the Appleseed-Simpson tussle Feb. 17. Immediately following the county tournament comes the Gold Medal Independent tourney and then the Class A sectional.

Basketball is one of the writers's favorite sports but after the above schedule the first sign of the old bat and glove will look mighty good. If we make it!

SHORT SHOTS—Bet you didn't know that: Class A teams in the sectional tournament here must bring their own locks (for lockers). . . . The tournament will be "broadcast" to Bucyrus by means of a telephone connection hooked to a loud speaker in several public places. . . Madison high plans a new football press box for next fall . . . Track is out for this year but Athletic Director Ennis Walker is trying to "sell" school officials on a golf team. . . . Announcement of the local high school baseball schedules may raise some eyebrows. . . . Senior high Athletic Director Augie Morningstar is now a frustrated photofinisher. . . . Trouble is, he says, most of his photos are finished before he starts. . . . .We should have been, too.

the count to the original 12 points.

The fly in the ointment all the way was Joe Lawler, a tiny, blond guard who literally dribbled Fredericktown crazy while leading the scoring with 13 points. He scored four times on a delayed two-handed running jump shot from near the foul line in which he seemed to defy the law of gravity.

It was the 17th victory against two defeats for St. Rose. Lima also won the reserve game, 24-19.

Observance Urges Child Dental Care

City Joins In National Program

Mansfield members of the Dental society and the Dental clinic will launch a week-long program of activities tomorrow to observe Children's Dental Health week.

Tomorrow is National Children's Dental Health day, during which all public information facilities will be used to promote healthier American teeth.

Mansfield, however, will devote a full week to promoting better dental care for children. The extended observance of dental health in Mansfield is an effort to "make our city outstanding in its concern for its children's teeth," Dr. William E. Baird, chairman of the event, said.

"Surveys throughout the country have shown that there are about 284 million unfilled cavities in the teeth of America's children, and their teeth are decaying six times faster than we dentists can repair them."

"That's why this special day has been inaugurated all over the country—to point out that prevention of tooth decay is one of the main highways to improving the nation's general health. And that's why we in Mansfield are devoting this whole week to holding off the frightening rate of tooth decay."

Dr. Baird cited figures to show more than half of the children examined last year in the Mansfield Dental Clinic showed evidence of decay.

He listed three rules for prevention of tooth decay: 1. Brush teeth after every meal. 2. Eat plenty of cheese, fresh fruits, and vegetables. 3. Drink plenty of milk.

With Dr. Baird working on the special observance is Mrs. Warren Fort, chairman of dental society educational committee.

The committee will boost its dental health educational activities during the week and will sponsor a jingle contest among school children. Pupils will be asked to write jingles pointing up dental care, and prizes will be awarded the winners.

Youths Still Must Register At 18, Draft Board Says

The Richland county selective service board yesterday reminded youths eligible for the draft they must still register when they reach the age of 18, even though no one is being inducted during February and March.

Under the Selective Service act of 1948, these include all men between the ages of 18 and 25 who have not registered since last August, as follows:

1. Approximately 5,000 young men who each month reach their 18th birthday. They must register within five days after becoming 18.

2.—Men under 26 years of age returning to civilian life after being separated from active military service have 30 days in which to register.

3. Men returning from outside the United States have five days in which to register.

4. Men who are non-citizens must register within 90 days after entry into the United States, except those on diplomatic status.

STATE DRAFT

Director C. W. Goble pointed out that persons now on active military duty are not required to register, but he said this does not apply to members of reserve units.

"Although selective service has scheduled no physical examinations nor inductions for February or March, it should be made clear there is no holiday on registrations," Goble explained.

He said Ohio's 127 local selective service boards had registered 477,602 men between Aug. 30, 1948, and Jan. 1, 1949. Of this number, 48,335 were under 19 years of age.

Opinion Backs Court

Probate Judge's Decision Upheld

By a two-to-one decision, the Fifth District Court of Appeals has upheld a judgment of Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer in a case involving the estate of Allen J. Dick, deceased, an opinion of the higher court showed yesterday.

Mrs. Hattie Dick, of Shelby, widow of the deceased man, had filed a bill of exceptions, contending that a bank account of $1,000 was not left to Ivan and Ray Dick, of Shelby, the deceased man's brothers, as a gift, but that the funds were to be used for repairs to a house left to the widow.

Judge Cramer upheld the exceptions in the final account of the executors of the estate, ruling that the account was for repairs to the house, which is in London, Richland county.

The majority opinion ruled that a trust was created. Judges Charles W. Montgomery and C. B. McClintock, although writing separate opinions, concurred, thus upholding the probate court verdict.

Judge Robert B. Putnam dissented, saying the $1,000 should have gone into the estate for distribution.

Dick had established 27 accounts in the Citizens Bank of Shelby for various individuals. His estate was appraised at $24,415, the inventory showed.

Judge Orders Jail Sentence

Arnold Murray of Ruddy road was sentenced yesterday to 30 days in the county jail for petty larceny by Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler. Twenty days of the sentence were suspended on condition of good behavior. Court costs were charged to the defendant.

Russell E. Stahl, of Butler, was fined $20 and costs for unsafe operation. Joseph Virzi, of Cleveland, was fined $10 and costs for speeding. Jay T. Nixon, of Cleveland, was fined $5 and costs for crossing a yellow line.

Isabel Rust, Mansfield, R. D. 4. paid $10 and costs for passing a school bus while it was discharging passengers.

Pre-Induction Enlistment Open

Men registered with the Selective Service board who have received their pre-induction physicals, may now enlist in the Army of the United States for 21 months instead of waiting until they are called by the board.

According to Capt. R. L. Pine, commanding officer of the Mansfield Army recruiting center, these men formerly could not enlist in any branch of the service but had to wait until they were called.

Discuss Road Plans

The 1949 Richland county road plans will be outlined at the annual county road meeting on Feb. 24 at the First Methodist church.

County Engineer Walter E. Rusk said the all-day meeting is for trustees of the county's 18 townships and that guests will include the state officials of the Ohio Trustees' association and Richland county and Mansfield city officials.

There will be talks and discussions, but the program has not been set up, Rusk said. The week starting Feb. 28 will feature meetings of township trustees with county officials to go over township road programs.

The women of Circle Three of the First Methodist church will serve the luncheon at the annual road meeting.

Schedules 7 Meetings

Each car contains all kinds of French products, including Sevres china, lace and toys, which will be given to communities in all the states.

City Helps Bring Couple Together

BRISTOW, Okla. — (AP) — With the aid of a group of Bristow citizens, the romance of Mrs. Ella Mershon, 67, and the husband from whom she was separated 42 years ago, may yet end happily.

Mrs. Mershon and Barkeley Burris, 72, parted Friday after deciding they could not remarry because of their finances.

The Bristow group announced Saturday it was raising money to make up for any loss Burris might suffer by removing himself from Texas pension rolls.

"I want him to come back," Mrs. Mershon said.

Burris receives $50 a month pension in Texas and the prospective loss by a move to Oklahoma was the primary blow to their long-delayed reunion.

Receipts Drop On Sales Tax

Richland county's sale of prepaid tax receipts continued to show a decline during the week ending Jan. 22, the weekly statement released by the Ohio state treasury disclosed.

A $5,738.70 drop in total receipts was noted as the week ended Jan. 22 totaled $19,770.99 as compared with $25,509.69 collected for the week ended Jan. 24, 1948.

Collections to date mirrored the decline with 1949's total being $71,792.72 as against the 1948 collection total to date of $79,222.36. That represented a decline of $7,429.34. Grand totals for the state showed a $1,101,112.98 decline to the present time. Receipts in 1948 were $7,403,622.12 as compared to $6,304,509.14 for this year.

Board to Check Petitions Monday

Meters Bring More Revenue

Income from Mansfield parking meters last month totaled $3,291, approximately $376 more than in the month last year, the monthly report of George Caton, parking meter collector, showed yesterday.

This gain was significant since it was made over a 23 instead of a 24-day period with only 451 meters in operation as compared with the 460 in January, 1948. The smaller number of meters is accounted for by the fact that several were off the street for repairs.

The daily income per meter climbed from 27 to 32 cents and the daily income from $127.37 to $143.11.

inite leave of absence There the matter rested About three years later, however, while working on the Gerhart Eisler case, I learned the following at the State department's passport division.

The division heads received repeated calls from the White House, and several notes from Mrs Roosevelt's secretary, concerning Mrs. Browder There was one note from the Attorney General informing the division that the President wanted a comprehensive memo on Mrs. Browder's case for Mrs. Roosevelt.

In October, 1944, A. A. Berle, Breckenridge Long, Green Hackworth and other department officials met with Secretary Hull. Mr. Hull informed them that "for the good of the country" a visa must be issued to Mrs. Browder.

He added that the President, then running for a fourth term and making long-range plans to meet with Stalin again, did not wish to face the "embarrassment" of having Stalin bring up the question when they met

The formation before the 1944 elections of the PAC, with the late Sidney Hillman as its head, had interested the committee from its inception With so many of its founders and supporters having records in our files, it seemed hardly the adequate political representative of rank-and file CIO members

CHECKS PHONE CALLS

I was ordered to investigate and began by subpenaing the New York Telephone company's slips on calls made and received by PAC headquarters

The slips showed an astonishing number of calls to and from the White House. They were made by Hillman and many others, notably his executive secretary, Bennie Baldwin, who later worked for Henry Wallace in his presidential campaign in 1948. The calls from the White House were largely from David Niles, various presidential secretaries and Mrs Roosevelt.

I made a report on this matter and was continuing my studies of the communist aspect of the PAC when Dies requested me to release the early report at once, to any syndicated columnist I cared to choose.

I gave it to Westbrook Pegler On the day after it appeared in his column, I was attacked on the House floor as an "employe of Pegler.

Not long thereafter I was given notice by my Alexaidria (Va. draft board to report for a physical examination prior to induction.

I called on my draft board chairman and informed him that I'd be happy to go into the army, though over 30, married and a pre-Pearl Harbor father But, I felt I should point out, the Legislative Deferment committee, headed by Sen Burnet R Maybank (D, S C), had deferred me along with other members of the un-American Activities committee's investigation staff.

"Can't help that," the man said "There's a lot of pressure on us to put you in the army You're being ordered in right from the top direct orders from the state director"

I took the physical, passed, and was placed in A-1 I'm convinced I would have accepted the assignment just as any other draftee did if the army itself had not rebelled against what two of its regular officers assigned to Selective Service called "a plain case of railroading"

(Tomorrow: A last-minute maneuver by Rep. John Rankin saves the committee, and Stripling's draft status becomes a national incident.)

Pledge of Allegiance to Flag

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

When Those Boy Scouts Become Men

THOSE who have been in position to observe the benefits of Boy Scout training, as it carries through into the later life of young men who have been privileged to participate in this boyhood activity, can scarcely fail to be impressed by the results.

Starting today, a week is given to annual observance of the anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scout movement in the United States, this marking entry into the 40th year since the organization was incorporated in Washington, D. C., Feb. 8, 1910.

From a small beginning the movement has grown until now there are more than 2,800,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Senior Scouts and their adult leaders in this country, and it is estimated that total Scouts and leaders since 1910 has passed the 15,500,000 mark.

Mansfield, and this entire Johnny Appleseed area, has been fortunate in the long period of successful development of Boy Scouting and in the quality of leadership that has carried through year after year, under the inspiring and enthusiastic direction of Floyd F. Dent, Scout executive.

Consider for a moment some of the elements that are instilled in the minds of Boy Scouts as they follow through the interesting and exciting experiences of Scouting.

The Scout oath, for instance: "On my honor I will do my best: To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout law; to help other people at all times; to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight."

There are twelve points to the Scout law, requiring that a Scout be: Trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean, reverent.

The Scout motto is: "Be prepared"; its slogan, "Do a good turn daily," and its theme for this anniversary: "Adventure—That's Scouting."

Putting it all together, what more could be asked of any boy, or man, than that he so live and act as to exemplify the teaching and training of Boy Scouts—and how gratifying it is to realize that there is also a Girl Scouts' organization that is doing similar work in groups of girls.

Whatever can be done in the way of financial support or voluntary leadership that will further spread the benefits of such organizations will give large returns in later years.

Stumbling Blocks To 'One World'

THE United Nations Trusteeship Council is trying to arrive at a solution for a problem, which, while it seems to have little to do with international affairs, and is hard to take seriously, presents a difficulty to the Belgian administrators of Ruanda-Urundi.

Native inhabitants of this United Nations trust area in the Belgian Congo have evolved a unique way of calculating social prestige. A man's height in the social scale in Ruanda-Urundi is measured by the number of cows he owns. Social climbers may get the blame for the fact that a million cattle, more or less, are living on the limited area of grass land.

They are not used for food and their poor quality makes them an easy prey to disease. Pasturage needs be reduced to provide space for growing foods crops, but the natives refuse to do this, and the food problem is becoming acute for the human population.

Recalcitrance of human nature, where a change in customs is concerned, sometimes creates a barrier to the application of common sense to the simplest problems. This characteristic complicates the proceedings of other agencies in the United Nations.

Slum Clearance Moving Slowly

ELIMINATION of slum housing areas, and replacement with proper housing facilities should be a major concern of the nation in the coming decade, in the opinion of Representative Frederic R. Coudert jr., of New York.

He is the author of a housing bill under which the federal government would spend $200,000,000 a year for ten years in helping to finance such projects. States would have to put up one dollar for every two dollars of federal money.

Neither the problem to which he calls attention nor Representative Coudert's general plan of solution is essentially new. The need for clearing slums has been seen for a long time, but in most areas not much of a start has yet been made. Delay is partially due to need for all available housing space during periods when money has been available for large rebuilding projects.

Apparently it is vain to hope for a time when housing again will be so plentiful, as it seemed to be fifteen years ago, that slum dwellings could be demolished without having to be replaced, unit for unit. Some people in the building industry talk of a slackening of the pressing demand for new construction, so this might be a good time to attack slum elimination on a large scale.

Impression Based On Experience

DOROTHY THOMPSON commented recently on the proposed bill to establish compulsory government health insurance. She observed that she had lived under socialized and regimented medical systems in England, Austria and Germany.

She then had this to say about them: "They cost the people far too much. They provide inferior services at a high price. They are incapable of dealing with really serious and complicated cases. They result in two sorts of medicine—good medicine for the well-to-do; and bad for the masses, at high cost to those who can least afford it. And they build up a vested interest of physicians and bureaucrats which the people will never get rid of."

This is a "blessed century for mankind" says a midwestern minister. And so it is—but only if our people are intelligent enough to see the facts and use them to the best advantage.

Claude Callan points out: "It is a mistake to go in debt for trouble. Either pay cash or deny yourself the luxury."

That Always Gets Some Folks Excited.

A Voice From the Country

Crusade To Conserve Natural Resources

By LOUIS BROMFIELD

IN THE great Southwest there is a remarkable crusade in progress. It has directly to do with those things which are fundamental to our national and individual existence, to our economic stability, to our health and to our power as a nation. It is concerned with the conservation and management of the natural resources; which are our real wealth and, in the end, determine the value of our currency. The crusade centers, as might be expected, about the state of Texas—the biggest in everything—and Texans are going at it in a big way.

BROMFIELD

It is centered principally about agriculture and stock raising, but the conservation of water supplies plays a big part in the crusade.

Historically, the background of the crusade and the reasons for its necessity are no different in Texas than in the rest of the United States. Until very recently the whole nation, behaving like an invading army, has "lived off the country."

Its citizens cut down forests wholesale, mined the fertility of the soil and moved on the new regions until today there is no more new soil left.

They have exploited and exhausted minerals and oils. And now, slowly but inevitably, it is being brought home to them that we are beginning to run short of a lot of these things, and that while these things are diminishing in quantity and availability our population increases by leaps and bounds.

No longer can a young man take a team, a plow and harrow into the West, and for the taking claim as much free rich land as he can handle. No longer can an ambitious young man take a quarter and run it into a fortune.

No longer can a citizen with a few dollars establish a small corporation and build it into a wealth-producing industry. (Try it some time and see what taxation and double taxation does to you in short order.)

All this means, of course, that we are simply arriving at that point at which Europe has been for nearly two centuries—when hard work and grindstone production must take the place of free land, forests and minerals, speculation and exploitation.

Far more than has been recognized, all of these things bring about higher and higher prices and taxes and lower and lower purchasing power for the individual dollar. Far more than has been recognized these things have brought about the New Deal and the Fair Deal, and the increasing squeeze placed on small business and industry in favor of colossal monopolistic business and industry.

But to return to the Southwest, the whole process of speculation and exploitation of resources is no different than the past history of the rest of the country. It simply has happened more rapidly and on a greater scale.

* * *

Leaders Active.

WHERE the record differs is in the fact that the leaders in the Southwest are doing something about it, and are doing it on a big scale, as Texas does things.

Out there, it is not simply the case of a voice here or there crying in the wilderness, unheard, until the country reaches that sorry bankrupt depths which the Deep South attained.

Very rapidly everybody is getting in on the job—bankers, newspapermen, businessmen, industrialists, even a big oil millionaire here and there.

These men, who have taken the most out of Texas, are still, on the whole, speculators, and predators, and are putting the least back into the preservation of the resources of the state to which they owe everything.

The bankers and newspaper editors and owners are doing a notable job—not merely of lip service. They are spending money, setting up contests and even establishing in some communities demonstration farms supported not by the state and the taxpayers' money, but by their own funds. It is an investment which will pay back big dividends long after Texas is as dry of oil as a bone.

In Texas it appears that everybody is getting in on the job. That fighting national organization with the gentle name, the Friends of the Land, has more members in Texas than any other state in the union. The Second National Bank of Houston has a long-established and very effective program engaging the paid services of a whole staff and the voluntary services of any number of good, solid citizens with vision.

* * *

Of Concern Everywhere.

TEXAS, younger than the East and the Middle West, is still in the throes of pouring millions and even billions in gifts and bequests into colleges and "culture" generally.

It is just beginning to understand what the older East has learned and the Middle West is learning—that vast, indiscriminate bequests have very little meaning if there are agriculture slums, empty stomachs and illiteracy in the lower level of our society.

The first leap of a pioneer society is always toward churches and colleges, and the reasons are understandable. When this impulse gets out of balance to the neglect of other factors equally fundamental to a prosperous, integrated, truly civilized society, the virtues of the initial impulse begin to fade in the direction of folly.

But in the Southwest they are beginning to do a big job of the sort which must be done on every watershed and in every state if the wealth, power and living standards of the nation are to be maintained.

It is a job which cannot be left to the government alone with that idiotic attitude that "we are paying the government; let it do it; let it take care of us."

It has to be done by every citizen or let him keep silent about taxes, regimentation, high prices and lack of opportunity. There still are opportunities left and there could be much bigger ones, but only if we regard our natural resources as what they are—the basis of our existence—and treat them accordingly.

Looking Back

Twenty Years Ago Today

Wednesday, Feb. 6, 1929.

Four young people had narrow escape when Erie train hit auto at North Mulberry street crossing. Miss Margaret Axtell and Virgil Zimmerman were injured.

Theft of flock of 65 chickens from Arnold farm on Ganges road was reported to sheriff.

Council acted to limit parking to one side of eight narrow streets and to prohibit parking in Luther Place.

Daniel Roche, Western Union manager here, was promoted to management of Youngstown office.

Henry G. Brunner was chosen as president and general manager of Pioneer Storage company.

Delegation from here attended dedication of new Elks' home in Galion.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. William C. Detman, 22 North Adams street.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Thomas Wyatt was executed on Feb. 6, 1554, for instigating an uprising against the marriage of Phillip II of Spain and Queen Mary of England.

Whitney Pledges 'Fair Deal' Support

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — A. F. Whitney, bustling chief of the Railway Trainmen, assured President Truman the other day that organized labor will support his "Fair Deal" legislative program as vigorously as it backed him in the recent election. "Naturally, there will be some things about your program that some labor groups will object to," said Whitney, "for we all don't see eye-to-eye on everything. However, in the over-all picture, labor will be solidly behind you in carrying out the liberal pledges of the Democratic platform." Truman replied he could ask for no more, since "no living man could write a legislative program" that would suit everybody.

PEARSON

However, what the Trainmen's boss didn't reveal was that he had heard of loud objection to one part of the program at a dinner the night before, attended by several Democratic senators and representatives of all the big labor organizations.

John L. Lewis's top lieutenant, vice-president Tom Kennedy of the United Mine Workers, raised cain about the proposed use of court injunctions to prevent strikes that endanger national health and welfare.

Truman had criticised such strikes in his State of the Union message and privately he has said that it may be necessary to put an injunction clause in new labor legislation in order to deal with strikes against the public.

"Labor wants to be free," Kennedy declared vehemently at the private dinner, given by Democratic Senate Whip Francis Myers of Pennsylvania. "It will not work under a system of oppressive injunctions. That is dictatorship. Before the United Mine Workers union will give its approval to the administration's labor bill, we will have to see the bill in print."

Other labor leaders, including Whitney, Arthur Goldberg of the CIO and Lew Hines of the AFL, didn't commit themselves on the injunction crackdown — aimed chiefly at Lewis. But Whitney endorsed the proposed ban on jurisdictional strikes, which, he said, would reduce union membership "raiding."

In the end, however, Kennedy voted with the others to OK Truman's entire legislative program.

Postoffices for Dixiecrats.

MOST interesting test of the no-patronage-punishment for Dixiecrats will come up almost immediately in regard to postmasterships for Congressman Gene Cox of Georgia.

Although Chairman McGrath has laid down the rule that Dixiecrats get no postmasters for patronage, and though President Truman snubbed Governors Thurmond and Talmadge in the inaugural parade some of the Dixiecrats are betting a ten-gallon hat to a one-gallon hat that they will be able to get choice jobs at the public feed-trough just the same.

One of these is "Goober" Gene Cox, the debonair congressman from Georgia.

Several postmasterships are open in Gene's district and he is going after them, despite the fact that he was one of the bitterest Dixiecrats of all.

Cox is relying on his buddy, Speaker Sam Rayburn, one of Truman's best friends but with a weak spot for an old crony. Cox has repeatedly defied Sam as a member of the House Rules committee, but the Speaker never deserts a friend.

Note—Some administration advisers are pointing out that if the President can't control his own Democratic party sufficiently to pass his program through the 81st Congress, he is lost politically, for he can't use the Republican 80th Congress as an alibi.

* * *

Merry-Go-Round.

WILL ROGERS, JR., California politico and son of the famous humorist, is lobbying to set up the Navajo nation under an independent administrator—divorced from the Indian Bureau. Rogers, who has adopted two Indian children, wants the job of administrator — with or without a salary. Senate doorman H. C. "Cap" Sanders got a bawling-out the other day for conduct unbecoming a doorkeeper. "Cap," who has been opening doors for Senators for 18 years, broke ranks on Inauguration Day to shake hands with ex-Senator Harry Truman, following which the new sergeant-at-arms, Joe Duke, decided this was no way for a mere doorkeeper to behave. Truth is, President Truman didn't mind at all. He still remembered "Cap" from his Senate days. The National Farmers Union is bringing 700 farmers to Washington on a series of sight-seeing tours. They won the trip by bringing new members into the Union. (Each tour will be routed through the Capitol to lobby with congressmen for 100 per cent parity payments.)

* * *

Kentucky vs. Maryland Ham.

A CAPITAL newsman was joshing Vice-President Alben Barkley about a 14-pound Maryland ham recently stolen from his office.

"What's a good Kentuckian like you doing eating Maryland ham?" inquired the reporter.

"Oh, that was a present to me from Frederick, Maryland," spoke up Barkley's secretary, Flo Bratten.

"Obviously!" rejoined Barkley. "In addition to making the best hams in the country, we Kentuckians pride ourselves on our good manners. That Maryland ham was a present. You can't send something like that back."

* * *

Under the Dome.

Congressman L. Mendel Rivers, the South Carolina Dixiecrat, has used his connections on the House armed services committee to "borrow" a Navy radio and recording equipment—worth several hundred dollars. The equipment was furnished by the naval research laboratory upon Congressman River's demand—but at the taxpayers' expense. . . . John J. McCloy, former Assistant Secretary of War, now president of the World Bank, is being pushed for the job of Secretary of National Defense. (He's a Republican and an able one.) . . . The government has just wound up a survey of the nation's highways for national defense. Results won't be published until April, but the government found that our highways have fallen so far below defense requirements that some roads aren't even equipped to handle everyday, peacetime traffic.

White House Repair Job

By INEZ ROBB

NEW YORK—Sentiment is a lovely thing and I simply drip with it. But just how sentimental can we Americans get? The more I read about the rehabilitation of the White House, the more I am convinced that we are being played for a nation of Mr. Blandingses. Remember Mr. Blandings and his dream house? He was a sucker for a left hook to his wallet when it came to building. We as a nation are in possession of a tumble-down shack called the White House, which any honest building inspector would long since have condemned as unfit and unsafe for habitation.

INEZ ROBB

Apparently there are plans afoot in the capital to ask Congress to spend a minimum of $5,000,000 to repair, patch and shore up the old wreck, instead of ponying up the estimated $2,000,000 it would require to tear it down and build a handsome duplicate from scratch.

If the building were not an historical shrine, it is flatly stated that "no engineer in his right mind" would suggest repairing the old homestead. Such experts would simply go in with a crowbar and start to work.

But to date, no one in Washington has had the courage to suggest that the old house be razed and an exact duplicate be erected on the same site.

A delicate feeling prevails in large segments of official Washington that Americans are so deeply emotional about the White House that the outer shell, even though badly cracked and rapidly deteriorating, must be saved at all costs.

* * *

Sentiment Above Sense.

OBVIOUSLY, the committee now wrestling with recommendations to Congress for the mansion's rehabilitation is convinced that we will become an embattled nation of Barbara Frietchie's crying:

"Shoot, if you must, this old gray head."

"But spare your country's shack," she said.

If this be treason, you know what to do: I want a new White House from scratch. I want an exact duplicate of the exterior, built on the identical site, and I want an exact duplicate of the first floor, with the east room, red, green and blue rooms, as well as the state dining room copied to the last tack.

I yield to no American in sentimental attachment to the White House. I first went there three years ago as a tourist. I thought then it was the most beautiful home I had ever seen.

In the ensuing years, I've never changed my mind. And I've seen a stack of palaces and castles in a good many countries.

But if there isn't enough of the original White House left to preserve, let's get a new one. The foundation is crumbling and even the exterior walls, which the committee seems too timid to tear down, are full of deep crevices.

There is no nonsense about the fact the interior will be entirely gutted and rebuilt. Just why should we be sentimental enough to save the crumbling shell is something I don't get.

Probably so the American taxpayer, 50 years hence, can pay for a new exterior to house the "old" interior built in 1949-50.

Let's save everything in the house worth saving, the paneling and the grand staircase.

Let's preserve the Lincoln room. But let's not be sentimental about a second floor that long ago ceased to meet the living requirements of a presidential clan. The private apartment of the first family ought at least to be as comfortable as those in any new slum clearance project.

It takes a heap o'livin to make a house a heap. And there's been a heap o'livin' in the White House from the time Abigail Adams hung her wash in the east room until Teddy Roosevelt's boys rode their pony up the front steps into the grand foyer.

Cast Nets Into the Deep

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I LIKE to tell this old story, particularly to someone who has tried very hard and seemingly has failed.

It's all bosh to say that you can win if you'll do your best. No matter how hard you try you can't win. There seems to be a force against you, a mystery you can't understand.

I know, for I've felt like that, too, and that's why I like to help folks who are in a jam.

This is a story of a group of fishing men. All day they had fished without any luck. They had tried every trick they knew and had used every encouraging word to urge each other on. But nothing helped.

And now it was growing dusk, a cold, drizzling dusk. Heaven knows the poor shacks in which they dwelt were meager enough and there was little cheer to be found in any of them. But to return without any fish, that was the blackest stroke of all.

They stumbled along, cursing their ill luck, wishing they could have found even a little fish for the baby, something for the old mother. And a young man passed them.

He was a quiet sort of person, not conspicuous in any way, and what he said seemed at first rather queer. For he simply remarked, "Why don't you try throwing your nets into the deep?"

They stared at him in amazement. Surely it was plain that they had thrown their nets repeatedly without any result. And yet the strange young man urged them to throw them again, and they did throw them. They gathered up all their strength and all their courage and faith and hope and they threw their nets as far as they would go over the darkening sea.

And there was a wonder! For lo, where before not a fish was found, now the nets were full to the brink. And the men ran home shouting and rejoicing and probably forgetting all about the quiet young man whose advice they had followed.

I like to tell that old story particularly in these times for if there have been harder times than these I do not know of them. There seems to be a palsy of discouragement upon the world and of confusion and of anger, man against man. And it's a great thing to consider that if we will gather together all the strength that is in us and throw it out into the very deepest part of our problem, we will be answered.

For we are answered. Faith does do miracles like that every day.

Our troubles are not caused by policies and politicians. They come because we don't throw our nets deep enough. We don't hope enough, we don't give ourselves enough in that last bit of effort.

There are fish in the sea. We have only to go after them.

It Says Here:

—By KEN WOODMAN

OUR friends, Judge Stewart Cramer and Commissioner Guy Stewart, may be on opposite sides of the political fence, but they see pretty much eye to eye on a very important issue: Getting the various county relief agencies under one competent director.

* * *

And for Richland county that's just about as important as a bi-partisan foreign policy was for the nation during the war. Bickering and maneuvering have no place in the battle against want.

* * *

Ordinarily there's nothing more interesting (or enlightening) than a good political scrap seen from the sidelines. But here's an instance where politics wouldn't be funny.

Timely Editorial

To Air Phone Booths.

In sponsoring a ventilated phone booth, the air in which is changed several times a minute, the Bell System puts itself in line for a humane society award.

There is no counting the number of husbands who have courted near-suffocation in pay booths while muttering an occasional uh-huh to a wound-up woman on the other end of the line.

The female, now regarded by science as the hardier sex, seems able to survive indefinitely in the sealed chambers with no air, and to talk endlessly without breathing.—Detroit News.

Baby Sitting

—By ANNE CAMPBELL

When the baby is asleep,
Peace, that rare and perfect thing,
Drifts upon an angel's wing,
While the evening watch I keep.

Nothing but good thoughts intrude
In this house where baby lies
Quietly, her flower-like eyes
Closed to my solicitude.

Lullabies have all been sung,
And the parents are away
Dancing where all hearts are gay,
Light of foot, and very young.

Snow is on my head, but snow
Never fell upon a heart
That loved babies from the start.
Now I turn the night lamp low.

I recall, as I descend,
That a voice serene and mild
Said: "Be as a little child."
And refreshed at evening's end,

I go home from a world
With a baby's perfumed breath.
Now I have a deeper faith,
And a good path for my feet.

Tucker Car Production Still Stalled

Promoter Has Many Troubles

CHICAGO—(AP)—Preston Tucker is a well-built, well dressed man with a genial face and a gregarious personality who spends a lot of time conferring with lawyers

His legal bouts arise from the fact that he is founder, president and all-around boss of Tucker corporation, a post-war company started with the aim of producing a revolutionary automobile. The corporation is in trouble, and so is Tucker

The story begins with the idea of manufacturing a car so new, so different, that it would make all others look like something left over from the days when Dobbin pulled the one-horse shay.

Tucker made his first official announcement of the "Tucker Torpedo" Feb 11, 1946 He said, 'The actual manufacturing of the car is ready to go—probably faster than any other brand new passenger automobile has come into production"

Tucker needed a great many things to produce his automobile. The two most important were: 1 A plant 2 Some money

After much argument, during which Tucker picked up a law suit or two, the War Assets administration gave Tucker a lease on the Dodge-Chicago plant southwest of Chicago, 16 buildings over 475 acres used during the war to build airplane engines Part of the terms were that Tucker had to have assets of $15,000,000 by March 1, 1947, a deadline later extended

The postwar world was ready for something new and daring and Tucker said he had it.

By October, 1946, Tucker had completed arrangements to get some money The deal was worked out with Floyd D Cerf Co, Inc, a Chicago investment house.

STOCK ISSUED

Tucker was to issue two classes of stock There were 4,000,000 shares of class "A" for sale to the public at $5 a share Tucker got voting trust control of 900,000 class "B" shares, and 100,000 'B" shares went to Cerf

On Sept 12, 1947, Cerf handed Tucker a certified check for $15,007,000

Thus Tucker found himself with a nation-wide dealer organization, a lease on a plant and more than $15,000,000 in cash

"Chicago is now assured of its first full fledged auto manufacturing company," Tucker said He predicted a daily output of 5,000 cars by March, 1948

Four days later Col. H A Toulmin jr, chairman of the board of directors, resigned This was the first of many resignations of officials from the company

In March. 1948 the first annual stockholders meeting was attended by 1,647 individuals That morning, Tucker said, "We completed our first production line car." It was made, he said, to test the assembly line His son was elected a director

During this month it became apparent Tucker needed more money While $15,000,000 looks like a lot, it isn't very much if you want to start a new automobile company Tucker, with not too much money to start with, found himself an inflation victim

Early in July, the SEC asked to see Tucker's books Tucker called this request "a fishing expedition" Dramatically, he shut down his plant.

On July 14 a stockholder and dealers' firm sued in federal court to have a receiver appointed, alleging the company 'is in danger of financial collapse"

The next day Tucker promised automobiles to his dealers within 30 days He said 29 cars had been completed and 69 others almost completed Although some hand work was necessary on these cars, he added assembly lines were nearing completion at his plant

But by November, Tucker was in Washington, trying to get an RFC loan of $30,000,000. On Nov. 30 it was announced the RFC had turned down Tucker's application. Next day Tucker assured dealers and distributors at a closed meeting, "the door for a substantial government loan is still open."

As 1948 rolled into 1949, several law suits against the firm dragged through federal courts

Meanwhile, Tucker corporation stock had touched a low of $1 a share bid The plant had been shut down, Tucker's salary had been cut off by the court and Tucker hired a new public relations firm He also offered to quit as president

"My first interest," said Tucker "is the earliest possible production of automobiles"

Three Smiths Are Justices In Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK Ark —(AP)—The Arkansas State Supreme court can, if it wants, now hand down decisions showing Justice Smith assenting, Justice Smith dissenting and Justice Smith abstaining

Three of the seven members of the state's highest tribunal answer to the name of Smith—but they say they are not even remotely related The newest one came to the bench after election last fall

They are Chief Justice Griffin Smith, Associate Justice Frank Smith and Associate Justice George Rose Smith

Chief Justice Smith, a newspaperman before he became a jurist, released a story about three men with the same name serving on the same bench and was ready for questions

He and Associate Frank Smith believe it is the first time in the nation's history that triplicates of this kind have sat simultaneously on a state supreme court bench or on any high court in the land

They studied judicial records and found two Smiths are serving on the Mississippi State Supreme court and that two Justices Hand, who are cousins, are on the second U S Circuit Court of Appeals in New York

Justice Frank Smith is the dean of the Arkansas court, having been on it since 1912 Chief Justice Smith resumed his place on the bench in 1937 Justice George Rose Smith, the newcomer, at 34 is one of the youngest high court jurists in the country

ACTIVITIES VARY—Several of the outdoor activities in which Boy Scouts participate are illustrated in this picture layout which announces the opening today of the 39th annual Scout Week. All of the photographs, taken at several points during the course of past Scout activities, are of boys who reside in Mansfield and vicinity. Scouts have a busy week ahead but still have time to think of summer when they once again can 'hit the trail' to outdoor adventures. There are four camp sites in the Mansfield area (Camp Avery Hand jr., the Richland County Fish and Game farm, and camping grounds at Rocky Run and Wolf's Hollow.) Also available for use of the scouts is Camp Shagkdomb, a 300-acre spot in Canada. Camp Shagkdomb, where some of the above pictures were taken by Floyd Dent, area Scout executive, was donated to the Johnny Appleseed Scout area by 10 Mansfield, Ashland and Shelby businessmen in 1938. The camp is located 75 miles north of Ottawa, Canada in the heart of Canadian forests. These camping facilities offer boys of Mansfield and area one of the best-rounded programs in canoeing, swimming, outdoor cooking and general camping available to Scouts anywhere in the U. S.

Boys Elect 'Congress' on Eve of Scout Week

City Leaders Cooperating In Program

Church Service Scheduled Today

James Geiger, Senior Eagle Scout of Troop 18, was elected president and Raymond Stretch, Life Scout, of Troop 2, was voted vice president of the Mansfield Boy Scout congress in the general election of Scouts, concluded last night, on the eve of Scout Week, which opened today.

The Scout congress is composed of one or more representatives from each troop. The group has been elected to represent the Mansfield Scouts as a whole in the coming week's observance of the founding of the Boy Scouts of America in Washington, D. C., on Feb. 8, 1910.

Geiger won over Charles Young, of Troop 6, for the presidency, and Stretch came out on top of the race for vice president with Frank Plaut, of Troop 18

Eagle Scout Geiger was former senior patrol leader of Troop 18, before advancement to the explorer post of the troop. He has been in scouting for nearly eight years, beginning as a Cub Scout in 1941

Life Scout Stretch has been in scouting since July of 1943, and is better known for his culinary art on camping trips in Canada where he served as chef last year

The congress will receive a practical demonstration in city government Tuesday morning at the city building. The boys will be the guests of the Rotary club for luncheon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Tuesday noon

The Scouts are to witness an actual trial in the Municipal court in conjunction with Judge H. H. Schettler's discussion of a city's judiciary system, and will also learn about the city's executive branch direct from Mayor Roy W. Vaughn. Duties of the legislative branch pointed out to them by Council President Paul Bush.

Charles Young, runner up in the presidential race, and a Junior Rotarian, will address the Scouts and Rotarians at noon upon "My Experiences As a Scout."

Home Hazards Easily Fixed

Nearly 5,000,000 persons suffer home injuries each year, either because the house was not built with an eye to complete safety, because it was allowed to fall into disrepair, or because of careless habits.

Many hazardous construction features can be eliminated easily and at little expense, such as: Placing railings beside unprotected steps; cutting a vision panel through the swinging kitchen-dining-room door; replacing all loose bricks and boards as soon as discovered: painting low-hanging basement pipes and ducts white for high visibility; installing strong grabbars in easy reach over the bath-tub; illuminating stairways: replacing each extra-wide kitchen cabinet door with two narrow ones: rounding off sharp corners of kitchen counters.

Careful! There Might Not Be Gold In Those Bills!

Counterfeiters Pass Wares to Unwary

NEW YORK—(AP)—A hatcheck girl took one look at a $20 bill handed her in a New York night club the other a. m. She called the manager.

Her action resulted in the arrest of two men and a woman, the confiscation of $200 in counterfeit bills, and a police charge the trio had passed a spurious $130 in a tour of the hot spots.

On the theory that money handlers, even in the banks and big department stores, aren't always as alert as the hatcheck girl, "The National Counterfeit Detector" has been published once a month since 1907.

It is a tiny magazine measuring 5½ by 8½ inches It runs to about 48 pages. But if you studied it carefully from month to month, there's not much chance you'd ever get stuck with a counterfeit bill.

And the chances of getting stuck with such a bill are high right now. Early last month government officials said a flood of $10 and $20 counterfeits had been loosed on the country. Bank officials said they were masterful imitations. The influx of bogus bills in the New York area was the biggest in history

The "detector" in complete detail every U. S. and Canadian counterfeit known or believed to be in current circulation. It also describes bogus issues of more ancient date that probably have been suppressed in toto by the secret service, but one of two of which may possibly still be in circulation.

Last month's issue, for instance, lists and describes eleven spurious $1 bill issues in current circulation, twenty-seven $5's, thirty-six 10's, twenty-eight 20's, seventeen 50's, twenty $100's, two $500's and one $1,000.

LIST ALL ERRORS

Each listing is studded with all the errors committed by the engraver or printer of the counterfeit note in question. Frequently personal remarks are made concerning the engraving of the U. S. presidents on the bills.

"Washington appears to be unshaven," says one. Others comment: "Hamilton's forehead blends with his hair, due to lack of hair line," "Hamilton's right eye is too narrow." or "the mole on Grant's cheek and his diamond shirt stud are missing."

The "detector's" information concerning counterfeits comes from the Secret Service, which keeps watch over Uncle Sam's currency. Frequently, Thomas P. Drew, president of "The National Counterfeit Detector" and a top-flight New York industrial executive, pays a visit to the New York office of the Secret Service to get the latest news on phony mazuma.

One of the features of the "Detector" is a standing box on its editorial page offering a reward to subscribers for first information concerning new counterfeit notes. The subscriber who sends in a description of a new counterfeit will be given the face value of the note. The maximum reward is $20.

The company sometimes makes as many as a half-dozen such payments a year.

Drew, who is president of the Automatic Fire Alarm company, and issues the magazine as a sideline from Scarsdale, N. Y., purchased the "Detector" in 1937 when it temporarily was in a lanquishing state.

It is published nominally by "Grant, Bushnell and company."

Grant, Bushnell and a man named Jones(first names buried in the past) founded the "Detector" in 1907. Grant and Bushnell had a mission in life.

That was to educate the public in the ways of the counterfeiter. They divided the country between them and, top-hatted and Prince Albert-coated, visited virtually every American bank instructing tellers and cashiers. tellers and cashiers.

They were the only two private citizens in history empowered by act of Congress to carry counterfeit bills. These they would borrow from the Secret Service, exhibit them on their tours and later turn them in for a fresh supply.

Russian Satellites Suspect U. S. Has Spies Everywhere

Reds Blame All Troubles On America

Suspect Agents Of Dire Plots

NEW YORK — (AP) — The eyes that peer from behind the iron curtain evidently see an awe-inspiring dragon in the garb of an American intelligence agent.

The dragon is everywhere. He pries into the innermost secrets of "people's democracies," an eastern European term meaning communist dictatorships. He organizes rings of agitators. He wreaks havoc with sabotage. He plots mayhem against the defenders of the "true freedom" as handed down by Moscow.

If the pronouncements of the Soviet satellite governments are to be believed, he has done a prodigious job. Washington is modest about it, though. The habitual retort from Washington is the diplomatic equivalent of "baloney!"

Frequently the "agent" is referred to only as a representative of a "foreign power." By "foreign power," the accusers do not mean Russia. For consorting with this ubiquitous agent, men have been sentenced to death, thrown into jail for long terms or bounced out of countries under the Moscow wing.

The latest manifestation of the "agent psychosis" comes from Czechoslovakia, where the police of Prague have just rounded up some 60 Slovaks and are out hunting for more who they say worked with American intelligence units

This is simply a continuation of what has been going on since Czechoslovakia joined the Moscow colors. Right next door to the American zone of Germany, the Czech government officials are sure their country is a happy hunting ground for western spies. Recently a group of Czech army officers were arrested for plotting with an "agent of a foreign power." An army major was sentenced to death.

PATTERN MONOTONOUS

The pattern is monotonous, and just as monotonous are the denials from the west. These are just some samples:

Soviet-occupied Eastern Germany:

The Soviet-licensed press charged last September that Russian officials smashed a spy ring of Germans organized by American intelligence agents. Washington said it looked very much like a communist expedient to warn the German public to the danger of opposing communists.

The Soviet Zone of Austria:

The Russian news agency Tass distributed a story charging American intelligence men with hiring Austrians to spy for them. The United States said this was utterly untrue.

Hungary:

The communist - dominated Hungarian government arrested the Roman Catholic primate, Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, and charged him with, among other things, plotting with Americans and British against the government.

Bulgaria:

Bulgaria's fright over American agents became manifest with the trial of the agrarian leader, Nikola Petkov, subsequently executed. He was charged with working for a "foreign power." Guess which.

Romania:

Last December, Romania threw out two American and two British diplomats they charged with operating as "spies and saboteurs."

Yugoslavia:

Since the Yugoslavs got into Soviet doghouse, they have not found so many evidences of British-American skullduggery. Before that it was a regular occurrence.

Poland:

Poland looks upon the American embassy and the U.S. information service office in Warsaw with suspicion. Washington has charged that Poles are arrested if they so much as enter the information service office.

RUSSIA:

Last August the Soviet press and radio burgeoned forth with a story about an assistant U.S. naval attache who already had left Moscow. The press and radio said he had been caught receiving secret information from a Russian and was sent home by demand of the foreign ministry.

The U.S. state department retorted that the attache had been framed and that the whole thing was aired in Moscow for internal political reasons.

Project Moves From Dream Stage to Reality

Rural Life Centter Progressing

By NITA BRANSON

Operating under a ten-year plan, the Richland Rural Life Center has moved out of the "dream and hope" stage to become a reality which backers believe will be of present and future benefit to all rural residents of Richland county.

With the establishment of a permanent organization, the election of permanent officers and the adoption of a constitution, the Center is now ready to draw on its reserves of energy, cash and executive ability to make the project in Weller township an assured success.

Heading the organization is Thomas Sheppard whose vision has kept alive the wish for such a project. Backing him are others of equal vision who have given hours of work, enthusiasm and advice.

The ten-year program as outlined by extension engineers and officials from Columbus calls for a panorama of landscaped woods, and grounds, dotted with recreational, dining and administrative halls, sleeping units both for Richland county boys and girls and a community hall for general gatherings of country folk.

The history of the Center is briefly this. A house to house canvass for financial aid was started in September 1947; in November of that year an application was filed with the secretary of state for permission to incorporate a non-profit organization. Later the 80 acre Reding farm in Weller township was purchased and plans made to convert it into one of the first Rural Centers in the country.

The original house-to-house canvass was supplemented with cake-walks, plays, luncheons dinners, bake sales, junk collections, square dances, bazaars and a county-wide auction sale to raise sufficient funds to get the project going. In addition to the general projects, 4-H clubs women's organizations, granges, churches, farm bureau groups and other county groups worked hard to make the necessary funds available.

The county extension office in Mansfield cooperated with the use of a meeting place and stationery; state extension specialists from Columbus made surveys; leaders of every township "went all out" as Sheppard put it, to help make the dream come true.

Legal advice was contributed as were lay-outs and suggestions from electrical problems; county merchants and manufacturers gave numerous articles for the auction sale; contractors whittled their prices to meet the Center's bank-roll;

"It has been a community project in the truest sense of the word," Sheppard said.

The first actual building step was to erect a new house and garage for Floyd and Bertha Reding to take the place of their old family home and barn. This was done, with the 4-H club boys doing all the work on the garage. It was placed in the center of a four acre plot near the highway.

The second project and one upon which the Center is now about ready to start, is the remodeling of the old barn into a recreation and dining hall. Young people's groups of the county have promised their labor for this phase of the project. Later cabins will be built, but for this summer's camping period for 4-H club boys and girls, tents for the boys and the present buildings on the place for the girls will be used as sleeping quarters.

Equipping the kitchen will be one of the big projects for this spring and early summer. Sanitary equipment, good drinking water, and electricity, all will have to be on hand when the first campers arrive in June.

It is estimated that, for immediate needs, the following cash outlay will be required: $750 for the barn remodeling; $600 for cabins; $300 for tents; $700 for toilets; $300 for a septic tank; $1,000 for kitchen equipment; and $500 for a water supply. Later, a lake will be built at a cost of $1,032.90.

Excess trees on the place will be cleaned out and the lumber dried and used for the building projects. Most of the labor on the place is being donated by various rural organizations.

It may take years to complete the "dream" but when it is done, Richland county's Rural Life Center will be one of the finest of its kind in the country, say the sponsors.

Plan Bible School Program

The initial meeting of the Daily Vacation Bible school committee, headed by Mrs. H. E. Neese, will be held Monday at 7.30 p.m., in the First Methodist church.

At that time plans will be made for an expansion of the summer program, which last year was held in 22 of the city's schools and churches.

It is expected that something will be worked out at this meeting to supplement the lack of religious education in the city's schools, Mrs. Neese said.

The Council of Religious Education, of which John Linsenmayer is president, will be represented at this meeting.

Foundation Reports On Civic Work

$270,157 Received For Philanthropy

Since 1945, a total of $270,157.90 has been contributed by 18 Mansfield individuals and corporations for the philanthropic work carried on by the Richland County Foundation.

Account of the activities of the Foundation since its inception three years ago was released yesterday by the secretary-treasurer, Norman L. Wolfe.

In addition, the foundation has received $5,000 in government securities and the Goodman Fund of $15,000, earmarked for the assistance of needy, crippled children of the community. Income from the $5,000 in securities is spent at the discretion of the trustees. The Goodman Fund is contained in cash and securities.

Of the $270,157 in bequests, $246,665.29 was earmarked by the donors for the welfare building program, including the Friendly House, YMCA, YWCA and the Salvation Army. Of this amount $140,400 has been turned over to the Friendly House for its new building and $6,250 has been paid to the YMCA to renovate its present building on Park avenue west, pending the time when a new building program for that institution is started.

Gifts expressly for the new Friendly House building on Vale avenue total $4,600 which; Wolfe said, has been paid to the Friendly House building fund, making a total of $145,000 paid by Foundation to the settlement agency.

Five thousand dollars have been set aside to aid in the construction of a new Congregational church building in the city and $4.070 of the total fund is to be used at the discretion of the trustees. Part of the latter figure represents the interest from the re-investment of cash turned over to the foundation.

Present balance of the foundation is $88,892.61 most of which is invested in government securities, Wolfe said.

Wolfe added that letters have been sent out by the foundation to lawyers and banks, advising them that clients and depositors can now contribute to the foundation through their facilities.

Officers of the foundation include G. W. Stephens, chairman; Paul R. Tappan, vice chairman and Wolfe, secretary-treasurer Directors are, Scott F. Coffin, John H. Finefrock, D. O. Meese and Robert B. Black.

Galion Council Requests Dismissal of Mandamus Writ

File Action In Crawford County Seat

Power Franchise Issue Involved

GALION—City council here has filed an action in the Crawford County Common Pleas court in Bucyrus asking dismissal of a mandamus writ allowed last month in the controversial power franchise issue.

The mandamus action, filed last month by City Solicitor George Davies, forced council here to permit Galion electors to vote on the controversial ordinance. The ordinance gave the Ohio Public Service company the right to furnish electric power to two firms here.

The latest action, filed by Attorney Carl Gugler for council, charges the referendum petitions, which were circulated asking a vote on the ordinance, are invalid because they were not filed within 30 days after passage of the ordinance.

An ordinance has been introduced in council for the holding of a referendum election but council has refused to act on it, according to Solicitor Davies.

Judge C. U. Ahl has announced a hearing on the various phases of the case, including the mandamus writ, will be held in the Bucyrus courtroom at 9:30 a. m. Thursday.

The franchise ordinance was passed over Mayor H. H. Hartmann's veto on Nov. 4, 1948, and granted OPS the right to sell electric power to two factories. The ordinance first passed Oct. 5, '1948, but the mayor vetoed it Oct. 13.

After council passed the ordinance over the veto Solicitor Davies obtained a temporary injunction against the power franchise until referendum petitions were filed.

Meanwhile OPS accepted the franchise on Nov. 24 and the referendum petitions were filed with the mayor on Dec. 3. A mandamus suit was filed by Davies to force council to order a referendum and this was accepted by the court. This followed with council's resolution to employ Attorney Gugler. The resolution was vetoed by the mayor and again council acted over his veto power.

It was learned here Gugler's answer was similar to arguments filed by J. L. Strelitz of Marion, attorney for OPS.

Pioneer Farmhouse Gets 'Face Lifting'

Richland Landmark Reborn

By BILL HERRING
(N-J State Editor)

A 112-year-old brick and frame Richland county farmhouse, which once boasted the first cook stove in the area, is being modernized by the William H. Meeks, who live on Reynolds road, Shelby, R. D. 2.

They are restoring the place built in 1833 by David Miller when he migrated here from Dauphin county in Pennsylvania. Many of the antiques in the house were among original furnishings of the house.

Work still remains as walks, landscaping, old plantings and rebuilding of the original barn are on this spring's agenda for the Meeks.

* * *

Mrs. Meek, daughter of C. E. Morris who was mayor of Shelby for 10 years, is a great-granddaughter of a Mrs. Cummings, who was a neighbor of the original settlers. Mrs. Cummings and Mrs. Miller walked five miles to Ganges where they sold eggs for three cents a dozen and butter for six cents a pound at the general store. Modern geography places the Miller-Meek place nearer Shenandoah.

Miller, with his wife Sarah Burgoyne and children Joseph and Eliza made the trip to Richland county in a covered wagon. The jaunt took two weeks and Miller descendants were told Sarah remarked during the trip there wasn't "rain enough to wet a man's shirt."

Shortly after moving into the log cabin in a five-acre cleared space in the heavily-wooded section Miller built a hewed log addition for a kitchen. It still stands and the Meeks have utilized it for a kitchen, modern bathroom and enclosed the porch for an extra living room.

* * *

There is a large bedroom above which serves the Meeks. It contains original bubble glass panes in the window frames and the cherry wood partition was torn down. With the partition the Millers had two bedrooms over their kitchen as there were 10 children in the family, once it established in Ohio.

The cherry wood has been used in making a fireplace mantel in the front section of the house. The wood also was used in making stairway railings and a clock shelf.

The original kitchen had a seven-foot fireplace. This was equipped with a crane that swung cooking utensils into place over the fire. In 1836 Miller tore down the original log cabin, leaving the hewed log kitchen addition standing, and rebuilt.

He used bricks obtained from clay on the farm to build the story and a half front part of the house. There are two neighboring houses whose bricks were obtained in the same manner.

* * *

Letters still in possession of Miller descendants reveal the Miller household had the first cook stove in the county. In 1847 Miller took a load of wheat to Milan (then the territory's grain center) and returned with the cook stove. Miller became alarmed as the stove became red hot and feared it would melt, one letter disclosed.

Eliza Miller Hughes, one of the pioneer settlers from Pennsylvania, is the great-grandmother of Marie Hughes, teacher in Shelby high school. Herman Creveling, librarian at the court house here, is another direct descendant of the Millers.

The Miller farm figured prominently in early county railroad history. The New York Central railroad, in 1846-47, wanted to construct its mail line through the farm into Mansfield. Local citizens then turned a deaf ear to the proposal as Mansfield already was served by the Baltimore and Ohio and Pennslyvania lines. The NYC then went to Shelby.

* * *

Richland countians then were fearful the coming of the railroads would destroy the horse market. All provisions at that time were hauled by horses.

The written Miller family history notes that snow seeped into the second floor bedroom of the boys. They had to step onto a snow carpeted floor before dressing then return later to pile it up and carry it downstairs and dispose of it.

Beside the kitchen stairway leading to the Meek bedroom there is another in the front, or bricked portion, of the house where two guest bedrooms have been constructed.

* * *

A cannon ball, a War of 1812 relic was unearthed last spring as Meek dug a water line on the farm. The Meek Scotty dog, Heather Belle, finds it a most intriguing toy as it rolls over the kitchen floor.

The original plaster and hand made lath remain on most rooms and the Meek kitchen cupboards are full of antique dishes—leftovers of the Miller era. There are valuable old paintings hung on the walls of the rooms.

The Meeks acquired the 85-acre property in 1947 but did not move in until August of last year as certain remodeling work had to be completed first.

It's a far cry from the original log cabin as the present structure is wired for electricity, boasts a modern bathroom and Meek uses a tractor when afield.

Red Cross Goal In Bucyrus Up; Leader Named

BUCYRUS — Chairman of the annual Red Cross roll call here will be Attorney Robert L. Brown, it was announced last week by Rollen Koons, Red Cross chapter chairman.

The campaign goal has been increased to $8,020 to meet rising costs including the expense of operation of the blood donor program, Koons pointed out.

The new roll call chairman recently opened law offices here. He is the son of former Postmaster and Mrs. Carl A. Brown. He also was appointed to the board of directors and executive committee of the chapter.

The nex executive committee includes Mrs. Rueben Geissman of Chatfield, Mrs. Edward Hughes, Frank A. Sitler, L. S. Lutz, J. H. Blicke, C. D. Albright and Brown.

The new board of directors is comprised of Mrs. Robert White, C. D. Albright, D. C. Baer, H. S. Siegel, Charles Wiles, B. L. Spurlock, George Bergen and Brown.

When James Monroe succeeded James Madison as President of the United States in 1817, the inauguration day, March 4, fell on Sunday and Monroe was not sworn in until March 5, leaving the United States technically with out a President for one day.

GALION—Two Crestliners and a local resident were fined at hearings before Mayor H. H. Hartmann Friday. All were charged with disorderly conduct.

Police arrested the Crestliners, Samuel Brown, 28, and Franklin G. Garverick, 29, when called to a restaurant at 3 a. m during an alleged rumpus. A third man, also participating in the brawl, fled and the two held refused to divulge his identity, police reported.

Brown was fined $5 and Garverick $10 in addition to being sentenced to 10 days in jail.

Principal Draws Bucyrus P-TA Ire

BUCYRUS — Fourteen representatives of the Parent-Teacher association at Crawford grade school here were informed by the Bucyrus board of education at its meeting last week to present their grievances against Principal Ione Hertzer in a written form after the group had verbally criticized Miss Hertzer's administration.

Mrs. W. E. Stockmaster, P-TA president, accused Miss Hertzer of neglecting to provide playground supervision and of failure to cooperate with the P-TA in arrangements for meetings and other activities.

Board Member Charles Wiles told the group a formal written communication, containing specific charges, must be presented to the board before any action will be taken.

New London Railroader Gets Award

Dispatcher-Agent Feted In Akron

NEW LONDON — On Jan. 23, J. W. (Dusty) Rhoads, rounded out 30 years as dispatcher—agent for the Akron, Canton and Youngstown railroad and on Monday, Jan. 31, Mr. and Mrs. Rhoads, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fowdon, were in Akron, home offices of the line, where Rhoads was presented, among other things, with a diamond studded service pin.

The event had been originally planned for Jan. 29, on Rhoads' 65th birthday anniversary.

In 1922, a number of rail lines, including the A. C. & Y., feeling an increasing economic pinch, consolidated a number of their smaller offices. The unused Greenwich office was loaded onto a flatcar and moved to New London.

Since then, New London has been made the line's main division point, with all necessary spurs, switches, the railroad "Y" located here, the depot refinished inside and out, making the New London rail center a busy spot.

Conservation Unification Bill Studied

Senate Group Holds Hearing

A compromise bill to unify all the state's conservation activities is again going "through the mill" in the Ohio legislature.

One hearing has already been held by the Senate conservation committee. This beginning, during the past week, brought forth no evidence of strong opposition to the measure, although there is a possibility this will develop in later hearings.

The committee, which will conduct further hearings on the measure, heard it explained by its sponsors and the man who drafted most of it, former Lt. Gov. Paul M. Herbert.

Herbert was chairman of the drafting sub-committee of the postwar program commission's conservation committee, which spent two years in study before approving the draft by a 13-3 vote.

The former lieutenant governor admitted to the Senate group that the bill was "a product of give and take—the best that could be worked out of a clash of opinion."

In answer to a question by Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, he admitted further that the director of the new department had "very little" authority over the department's division of wildlife. The division actually is the present "conservation division" and is transferred, together with its governing commission, bodily into the new department and remains practically independent.

Train Your Own Hunting Dog—Part 1

Major Points Are Discipline, Field Work and Polish

By BILL WAUGH

(This is first of two stories on how to train your own hunting dog.)

If you hunt without a dog you've undoubtedly run into situations where you would have given a lot to have a steady hunting dog out in front. Especially when that cripple fluttered into cover—never to be found.

Hunting dogs—good trained ones — come high. The price tags start at $150. And that's too much for many of us to pay for a hunting companion. But John Pippin, Visalia, Calif., a state liquor control officer, says that shouldn't stop you from having a dog. He suggests training your own.

It's cheaper. It's easy. And you get a lot of fun with your dog in and out of seasons.

"Anyone with a little time and plenty of patience can train a dog for hunting," Pippin says. "All you have to do is get a young dog—say around 8 months or a year old—and spend 15 minutes a day with him. You'd be surprised how fast you can bring one around to doing what you want. In three or four months you've got a dog that will add immeasurably to your hours afield."

And you don't need to start out with a blue blooded pup with a price tag to match. Take Pippin's present dog. He's a cross—that is his dam was one breed (English setter) and his sire another (German pointer).

Nick—the dog—was acquired during the war while Pippin was riding a train as a Navy shore patrol. At Rawlins, Wyo., where the train stopped a few minutes on each trip, he spotted a big German pointer. He needed a dog. So he stopped at a nearby store and asked who owned the dog. The storekeeper said he would find out.

On successive trips—six months in all—Pippin got in touch with Fred P. Black of Rawlins, Wyo., and finally talked him out of Nick, one of the German pointer's pups. He got him the day Nick was a year old.

That was late in October, 1945. Shortly after, Pippin, out of the Navy, began Nick's training. John worked him 15 minutes a day, five days a week. In three months he had a good pointer. Now, with three full seasons of hunting behind him, Nick is a beauty to watch when after game.

Pippin cautions that his method of training produces a great hunting companion but not a field trial dog. Professional trainers strive to bring out many things in a dog that you as an individual hunter wouldn't necessarily want.

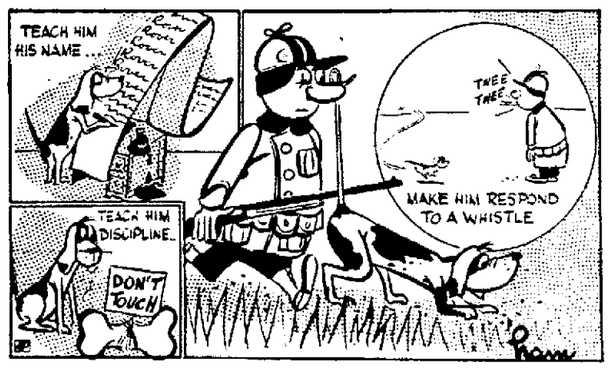
Pippin breaks up the routine into three groups—yard discipline, field work and then the polish acquired by actual hunting.

Yard discipline is teaching the dog to mind, to obey your commands.

First teach the dog his name. It's surprising how many dogs don't know their names. Start by using his name when calling him to feed. The dog will at first associate the sound with food but later will respond whether food is there on not.

At the same time begin on the discipline. Teach him to sit on command. Using a slip collar and leash is the simplest way. Pull firmly up on the leash and at the same time grab the dog just forwards of his hips and press down, repeating the command Sit. Relax the leash and your pressing as he goes into a sitting position. Do it a few times each day. Inside of a week he'll probably sit on command.



Then teach him to lie down. Take the leash and run it under your foot. Then pulling on it you force the dog's head down and at the same time press on his hips, saying the command "down." It'll only be a few days until he'll do it on command.

Next in line is to teach him what "stay" means. Make the dog sit and stay put for a minute. Each day make the time a little longer until he remains in a position as much as 10 minutes as you back away. Then you can even disappear from sight.

This is a good point at which to make your dog respond to a whistle. Break him off the "stay" by calling him to you with a sharp blast on a whistle. It's a lot easier to handle your dog afield with a whistle.

By this time your dog is beginning to mind. But remember, each day you should go through this entire routine, putting most stress, of course, on the new lesson.

Now comes the time for retrieving. Some dogs are natural retrievers and will learn to retrieve merely by chasing a thrown object. But experienced dog men prefer a dog that is force broken. Pippin puts it this way:

"If your dog is force broken he'll always retrieve. If he's not sometime when you're showing him off to friends he'll decide he doesn't want to play and won't retrieve for you."

In the case of a dog force breaking is teaching the dog to do something he wants to do for you.

Start the retrieving lessons with your dog in a sitting position. Open his mouth by pressing his lower lip on his teeth and tugging gently on the leash. When his mouth opens place a stick in it. At first he'll drop it. Repeat and press his mouth closed on the object. Keep doing this until he holds it. Then lead him around on a leash.

After the dog masters this encourage him to take the stick out of your hand. Gradually lower your hand, giving the command "fetch." Eventually you will have your hand all the way to the ground. You might have to pull gently on the leash to make him reach down.

Then make him pick it up from the ground, gradually moving the object away from him until he has to step out and get it on command. Keep increasing the distance until you can throw the object. On returning make him sit and place the object in your hand.

Pippin cautions the novice dog trainer to be patient. The dog wants to do what you want. Sometimes he just doesn't understand. You have to be firm, but don't beat your dog! If he needs punishing a good way to decide how hard you should whack him is to first crack yourself across the hand. That should tell you how hard you should use the switch.

His yard work learned, your dog is ready to take afield for introduction to game.—AP Newsfeature.

Know Your Fish

Suckers Can Be Very Annoying Rascals

When ever suckers come up in the conversation, fishermen instantly divide into two schools of thought. On one side are those who think this fish derives its name from the tube it uses for a mouth, and the others think it's called a sucker because it makes just that out of fishermen.

Either idea can be accepted as correct. The fish, a favorite of anglers who prefer the small creeks and rivers in this area, has a short but unmistable tube in place of a gaping mouth usually found on fish. He uses this tube to suck tiny bits of food from the bottoms of the streams.

At the same time, the smallness of this tube enables him to cruise up to a juicy worm threaded on a hook, gently wrap his 'lips' about the bait, and enjoy a brief snack.

Only the slightest twitching of the cork informs the fishermen of the banquet going on below the surface of the water, and four times out of five the sucker goes on his merry way, leaving a disgruntled fisherman hurling a lot of cuss words into the air.

Although his flesh is tender and fairly tasty, the long, slender, silver, tiny-scaled fish is seldom taken home to eat. His body is filled with small hair-like bones which are almost impossible to detect until they stick into the unwary person's throat.

Despite this, fishermen like to catch a sucker. He puts up a good scrap on light tackle, and he's a hard baby to hook.

USE WORMS OR GRUBS

Worms threaded onto the hook or small grubs and larvae presented in the same manner are preferred articles of food for the sucker. For a real fishing thrill just take a light pole, an old tin can full of worms, and go to the creek.

Find a small eddy around an old stump or log, and drop your line deep. Fishing without a cork will often produce better results since each slight touch on the bait will telegraph its way up the line and to the fisherman.

Don't be surprised if something else nabs the bait before the sucker does. Those old stumps are the best spots in the world for panfish. Especially if they lie just below a fast stretch of water.

Bass, crappies, bluegills, suckers, and rock bass lie in these spots, just waiting for nature to wash choice foods along the river bottom.

But don't be disappointed if your bait isn't hit so hard the pole bends double. The sucker is an easy feeder—but a good fighter.

Random Shots . . .

With

Don Miller

Don't any of you snowbound and jittery outdoors lovers come griping around me this week. I've had the fishing fever so bad my wife won't stay in the same room with me; I lay awake nights and relive all my old trips; and had every bit of my tackle out of the box 47 different times.

I suppose there's no one but myself to blame, however. I knew when I saw the package from the Cortland line company that I shouldn't open it. I did, however, and that set every nerve tingling. The box contained one of the company's newest lines, a camouflage affair.

It has more colors than a rainbow only they're much duller. Just among us fellers it's a ten-to-one bet a bass won't spot that line in the water.

Which brings us nicely into another discussion which may start a fuss. Past experience has proved to me that a leader and 'hidden' line mean a lot of difference in bass fishing even though this may be argued against.

Time and again I have nabbed plenty of fish while using a leader whereas my sidekicke went fishless—and leaderless. And then again I have gone without any fish because no leader was on the line while someone else hauled 'em in right and left.

Any of you think you have your tackle and gear in good shape for the coming fishing season? Check again. Have you cleaned up your camera and made certain it's in working condition?

Better do it. Plans are underway for a weekly outdoor picture contest. Prize lists and other details haven't been completed yet, but professional handling of pictures won't mean a thing. All we will want will be interesting and unusual shots of hunting and fishing with just enough contrast to make a good cut. More of that later.

THE COST OF PLEASURE

He buys a $50 rod,
And a $20 reel.
A $14 pair of boots
And a $7 creel.
He spdns and spends until at last,
His money has run out.
The hies himself to a far-off stream
For a quarter's worth of trout!

The 'mystery animal' which has caused so much comment around Lexington is still on the loose, and I'll stick by my guns. I've declared it to be a wildcat because of the way it has slashed dogs and because of its size. Now residents of the Chagrin Valley are chasing a wildcat around and around.

With deer, beaver, wildcats, and virtually every other species of game increasing in number in Ohio it's plain to see that cooperation among farmers, sportsmen's groups, and the state conservation commission is beginning to pay off.

Offhand I'd say I'm like a lot of other sportsmen in one respect—I'd like to raise fur-bearing animals. I've considered mink, rabbits, and muskrats but all would require too much space.

Then someone brought up the subject of chinchillas, how little space they require, and what nice pets they make. That sounded ideal until I discovered what they cost—from $1,200 to $2,000 per pair! And that takes care of THAT idea.

★

A bill has been introduced in the state legislature to repeal the law making fishermen wear visible licenses. Frankly, I think someone's off the track on that one.

Any hunter or fisherman with respect for lawful fishing and hunting would certainly have no objection to the wearing of the licenses. They make a game warden's work a lot easier (and he has a lot of territory to cover) and they offer visible proof that the wearer has contributed his share of the funds towards replenishing our game.

This looks like a good spot for sportsmen's groups to get in there and lobby a little bit to retain the present law.

★

There's another move afoot to unify all the conservation activities of the state into one new department, but I'll reserve specific comment on that until I've had a chance to read it. Offhand the idea sounds reasonable enough but I'm wondering what would be gained. It appears to me that the present setup is doing more than most other states into the field.

and the results are to be seen every time a sportsman steps

Don't let anyone fool you. There may be petty gripes now and then but that gang of conservationists down at the capital don't let any grass grow under their feet!

Fish, Game Gripes Will Get 'Airing'

The "gripe session" of the League of Ohio Sportsmen to be held at Columbus Friday, Feb. 18, promises to be a hot one if Richland county sportsmen have anything to say about what is brought up.

A delegation from the County Fish and Game association, headed by James Burkhart, president, is scheduled to bring up the matter of Pleasant Hill dam being posted as their first objective. Other matters which will be brought into the open and both condoned and condemned will be the proposed transfer of the quail to the game bird list from its present song bird status; and the bill repealing the wearing of a visible fishing license.

The quail and Pleasant Hill problems received brief mention at the regular meeting of the association Thursday night before-a-near-record crowd. More than 100 persons attended. As an added feature of the meeting, coffee and doughnuts were served following the movies.

OLDSTERS WATCHING

Old age pensioners in Ohio are watching one piece of state legislation with a great deal of interest. The bill would permit them to hunt, fish, and trap without a license if it passes.

First of Long Line of Checks for $102 Delivered

One day recently, a young lady said to me, "What earthly good would a Retirement Income ever be to me? I'll never live to be 60." And, with a toss of blonde curls, she added, "I'll be dead long before then—I hope!"

That was at 3:45 p. m.—or thereabouts.

At 4 o'clock, I was ringing the bell of a home juts three blocks away. And, in response, there came to the door a lovely vivacious person whose good looks and gracious manner completely belied her three score years.

It was my pleasant duty to place in her hands a check for $102—the first of a "long line" of similar checks which are going to be sent to her, every month, for the REST OF HER LIFE!

Yes, you've probably guessed it. She was quite eloquent, of course. But NEVER ONCE did she stop to wonder, "What earthly good could be a Retirement Income ever be to me?"

Sophie's Scrapbooks Fabulous

Momentoes Outline Epic Era of Thrills

NEW YORK—(AP)—Maybe you've been wondering about this state of mind called show business.

What is there about it that wets the eyes of old-timers with nostalgia, hypnotizes the young and makes so many people starve at it or live out of a trunk rather than "go straight?"

A good place to go for the answers in the personal history amassed by Sophie Tucker—the more than 200 scrapbooks she has just turned over to the New York public library. Library officials call it the most valuable collection they have on the history of vaudeville and night club entertainment.

For "the last of the red hot mamas" never threw anything away. Since 1907, she has been pasting up press notices, programs, ads, notes that came with flowers, opening night telegrams, theatrical calling cards from song pluggers and vaudeville acts, and hundreds of other mementoes of a lifetime before the footlights.

The result is that she has captured the flavor and sweep of her profession for almost half a century—its extravagant emotions, its defeats and victories, its changing gods.

Here, in a fragmentary way, is part of the picture gleaned from Sophie Tucker's five trunkloads of scrapbooks:

1907—Her first week in vaudeville, doing songs in blackface at 10-cent New York music hall. "Programme" called her "manipulator of coon melodies." First act on bill, ordinarily reserved for weakest, was something called "motion pictures." Evidently the music hall owners didn't think much of movies then. Their names? Adolph Zukor, Nicholas Schenck and Marcus Loew...

1908—Played eastern circuit with a "juggling and billiards expert"...W. C. Fields...at New Castle, Pa., she was first to wear new "sheath skirt," a tight-fitting garment which daringly contained a slit and buttons up one side.

1909—Moved up to second top billing at Plaza Music hall, New York (matinees, 25 cents, evenings, .50 cents). Top billing: "James J. Jeffries, undefeated champion of world."

Endless copies of sheet music covers. "Sung with great success by"—or "featured by"—or "as originally introduced by Sophie Tucker. "Sweet Cookie Mine," "Your Great Big Baby Smile," "There's a Little Bit of Bad in Every Good Little Girl," and finally, the signature piece she still sings—"Some of These Days."

1913—Clipping on divorce from first husband, Louis Tuck, whose name she had adopted (she was born Sophie Abuza.) ...New York theatrical ads featured Eve Tanguay, Eddie Foy and 7 little Foys, Belle Baker and Gus Edwards troupe, alma mater of Eddie Cantor, George Jessel and Walter Winchell..

1914—At long last—the Palace theater, mecca of all vaudeville acts. Minus blackface by this time and billed as "Mary Garden of Ragtime," Sophie came on before Chic Sale.

1918—Now performing with "Five Kings of Syncopation," she played many benefits for tobacco fund of World War I soldiers with Van and Schenck, Fanny Watson, Weber and Fields, John Charles Thomas, Blanche Ring, Alice Brady, Taylor Holmes.

1922—First London performance, ...ippodrome. First night diary note: "I was so nervous I nearly died."...Headline in London paper: "Mabel Normand arrives (from Hollywood)—her defence of the morals of filmland"...

1925—Note thanking her for benefit appearance. "God love you, you never miss one—Eddie Cantor." Sophie introduced "My Yiddisha Momma at Palace...

1927—Movies had moved up to top billing: "Milton Sills in 'The Silent Lover'—also Sophie Tucker and other acts on stage." visit with President Coolidge.

1932—Played Palace with Bill Robinson, Smith and Dale and Jack Whiting. Fire broke out backstage while Sophie was on. She tried to calm the crowd with jokes and songs.

1934—At last, command performance in London for King George V and Queen Mary.

1941—1944—Opened in "High Kickers" with Jessel... Sang at scores of USO shows for soldiers of World War II...

1948—London again, at age of 61. Clipping said: "smashing personal triumph...tremendous applause...for fifteen minutes after her act she stood bowing, dabbing at her eyes...."

Sophie Tucker's scrapbooks aren't complete yet.

Film Output On Upgrade After Slump

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— Movie production has rebounded from the depths of its slump. From producer to bit-player circles, folks are cautiously optimistic.

This week, 29 feature films were before the cameras. A few months ago, there were only about 20.

Any movie—epic or flop—originates in some writer's brain. This week, the Screen Writers Guild reported, 448 scripters were toiling at typewriters in studio cubicles. About six months ago, fewer than 300 were so occupied.

Last fall, an average of only 150 to 200 extras were being summoned daily to the sound stages. Now, some days, 400 or 500 are called.

Not that this warrants unrestrained cheers. In "the good old days" of 1946, extra calls often ran around 1,000 or more a day.

Ohio Amateur Movie Maker Grinds Out Realistic Films

CANTON — (AP) — Casmir (Ky) Zaleski is proud of the trophy he recently received for making one of the best home movies in the world last year. But he's now hankering after honors that are a little more negotiable.

The winning movie was one of the several womanless 16-millimeter horse operas Ky and his six brothers have made since the home movie bug bit him nearly three years ago.

The trophy was the top award in the scenario division of Home Movies contest. The award was undoubtedly well-deserved, for the western pictures produced among spoil banks behind a local brick yard have a lot of professional polish and realism.

Ky began his career as a producer when he bought an 8-millimeter camera in 1946. He though something should be done with it besides shooting the usual home scenes, and hit on the idea of making cowboy films.

The idea immediately became a family affair — for the seven brothers, that is. The two sisters have been cut out, for no women are allowed in these movies.

Ky, a 26-year-old roofer, and Leonard, 17, a high school senior, write, direct and occasionally act. Alex, 31, also a roofer, acts, rides and lends his three horses. Richard, 15, a high school sophomore; Frank, 22, who works at the Canton waterworks; Stephen, 34, a contractor, and Edmund, 20, a student at St. Mary's Mission house in Techny, Ill., also ride and act.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Play Fails To Amuse

Bernard Reines, a playwright making his first bow on Broadway, brings forth a play with a theme having far reaching social significance, a story written with what is obviously a great deal of feeling on the subject on the part of the author. The play is "Forward the Heart." It speaks both a story and a sermon with intense fervor. But the playwright is more concerned with getting his "message" across to the audience than he is in observing the rules of providing the audience with entertainment.

Reines tells the story, the development of the plot being frequently interrupted so the dramatist may deliver a "sermon,' of a young white boy who returned from the war embittered, upset—and blind. He has lost his eyesight on Guadalcanal.

Returning to his very proper home in Boston, he finds, the one person who understands him is Julie, his mother's maid, a young woman of rare intelligence and understanding. She has all the kindness and tact to make him feel that his blindness is not a handicap or anything to be noticed.

Then when he tells her that he loves her, she tells him gently a fact he has never suspected before. She tells him that she is a negro.

She goes away to save him from what she realizes would be an even deeper tragedy for him than his blindness.

The weakness of the play is that Reines hasn't a single answer or suggestion of an answer for any of the problems he presents. It is a play as frustrated as is the theme he dwells upon.

William Prince plays the blind soldier with a restrained skill which never allows his character to become one pleading for too much sympathy. And Mildred Joanne Smith, an unusually fine negro actress, plays the part of the maid with a poignant quality which has marked her previous performances on Broadway.

Books and Arts

NEW YORK — (AP) — Or maybe this should be datelined "Paris."

For there can't be 40,000,000 Frenchmen left in France, since all 40,000,000 seem on some days to be right here. Those two bareheaded men on Fifth avenue talk parlez-vous. The two girls in front of you at the theater are French from their language to their long, pointed painted nails to their bushel-size hats. The family group in front of the picture gallery jabbers and gestures in French.

The cries of "bis" and "encore" at concert and recital are the French for "do it again." The girl in the night-club sings songs fresh off Paris streets. The bookstore is all French books.

The influx began in the fall with the official, government-sponsored visit of the Paris opera ballet, which performed at city center in celebration of New York City's golden anniversary. It continued with the Orchestre National de France, Charles Munch conducting.

★

Perhaps the difference between the American and the foreign attitudes toward subsidized culture is illustrated best by two recent news items: Congress has been asked to appropriate $250,000 for a national theater, opera and ballet project; the British Parliament has actually appropriated $4,000,000 for a national theater.

★

The American Men of Letters series, planned and promoted by William Sloane associates, has won for the Sloane Publishing firm the seventh annual Carey-Thomas award for the best example of creative publishing in 1948. Honorable mentions went to MacMillan for "The Literary History of the United States" and to W. B. Saunders for Kinsey's "Sexual Behavior in the Human Male."

Shelby Holds Style Show

SHELBY — A cast of approximately 75 young people presented the "Parade of Fashions" Saturday afternoon in the high school auditorium for benefit of the high school library.

The production was under the direction of Miss Luella Kuhn, school librarian. She was assisted by Joyce Moon, Naomi Houpt, Carol Davis, Gwynne Richards, Caroline Quiggle and Lois Cooper.

The Style show reviewed fashions through the years. Of interest to the modern age youngster and adult was the review of fashions of the teen-age groups and women of today. With the M. O'Neil company of Mansfield furnishing the latest designs.

The high school girls' sextet was featured in the program.

Producer Signs Up Television Talent

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Television already has become another source of talent for movies.

Two actors have been signed by Allied Artists, Inc., on the strength of television performances. One is Joel Marston, seen by Allied Artists president Steve Broidy on New York City's WJZ-TV, and the other is Dick Foote, who has his own television show ("Songs of the Soil") on KLAC here.

Broidy said television can be expected to supplant the screen test, in many instances.

TO RECOGNIZE ISRAEL

BUENOS AIRES —(AP)— President Juan D. Peron informed a delegation of the Jewish Argentine association yesterday that Argentina soon will recognize Israel. Thirty-five nations have recognized the new state in Palestine.

She Liked Being In Public Eye

Flowers Started Comedy Star's Career

NEW YORK — (AP) — Anne Renee Anderson could scarcely have failed to note, as she ogled the laughing crowds swarming around the flower show in Grand Central Palace, how exciting it was to be the center of a billed attraction.

Lazily swinging on the front door at 42nd street and Lexington ave., where she was born and where she had just turned four, she spent many happy hours watching the crowds at the flower show, the automobile show, the motorboat show, and all the other shows that came to that wonder barn on Lexington avenue.

"That's when I knew I wanted to be where people could see me, and I them" says Miss Anderson, a star comedienne in Broadway's white hot musical revue, "Lend an Ear."

At 15, our Annie began the study of voice and was tabbed as a lyric soprano, "which I have lost," she says. "I am a comedienne who sings loud enough to hit the punch lines, and I know something about voice placement. A lot of comedians go hoarse because they never learn voice placement.

One day Miss Anderson became obsessed with the idea of talking to "masses of people." She joined a stock company to learn dramatic acting. While working with this company she met and fell in love with the comedian Jules Munshin, later marrying him.

ANNE ANDERSON

'SINGLE' IS LONESOME

"When the season ended we formed a comedy team but it wasn't too good. Then the war took Jules for four years. I did well enough in a single comedy act. But it was too lonesome, and I went abroad five times with U.S.O. shows, once spending six months in Africa."

Charles Gaynor, who wrote every word of every sketch and every song in "Lend an Ear," found Miss Anderson at the Turnabout theater, Los Angeles, where she had gone to be near her husband, who had a picture contract.

He awarded her a feature contract and she opened in New York.

"My name isn't really Anne Renee Anderson," admitted Miss Anderson. "There's no Renee to it. But Equity has a rule that two actresses cannot use the same name. There already was an actress named Anne Anderson. So I added the Renee, And I don't like it," Anne Renee Anderson says emphatically.

Community Players Offer Comedy

15 Newcomers Will Make Bow In Stage Production

Fifteen newcomers to the acting ranks of the Mansfield Community Players will make their bows in the opening performance of "Suds In Your Eye," Tuesday and Wednesday nights at John Simpson auditorium.

Notable among these will be the eight "graduates" who have come up through the technical ranks of the players.

Mrs. Clarice Clark and Mrs. Dorothy French are typical of the new actors. During the past two years both women have given many hours of their time to running down properties and costumes for the shows. In "Suds" they'll both appear in supporting roles.

Ed Kitz, Clark Munger and Fred Talcott are valuable additions to the players because of their stage experience in the east. Talcott is a professional stage technician.

Like Mrs. Clark and Mrs. French, Harold Bunsey, Bruce McGinty, Howard Clark and Norm Fleming have remained "behind the scenes" on the technical crew throughout many plays. Instead of rehearsing their lines and actions before a director, their free evenings were spent with hammer and saw or paint brushes in the Players' workshop, building the set for the play.

Principal among the really "new" players is Mrs. Jean Sauter who will carry the leading role of the Irish Mrs. Feeley in the play. One of Mansfield's few women lawyers, Mrs. Sauter brings to the Players a fine stage voice and professional poise.

Other newcomers in major roles include Miss Janet Hahn, as the Swedish Mrs. Rasmussen; Mrs. Valerie Kent who brings her experience with the Lima Players to light in the vampish role of Conchita; Miss Helen Crawford who is cast in the romantic lead as the school teacher, Miss Logan; and Lloyd Lewis, Senior high school youth who will play the character role of Chinatown. Mrs. Eleanor Hattman, a supporting player, is also among the newcomers to the group.

There will also be the "veterans" who have appeared with the Players before and who have never failed to prove a big hit with the audiences. Don Fatkin, who appeared in "The Return of Peter Grimm" and in the summer theater festival of the players, will have the romantic lead. Dave Hughes, whose pleasant characterization of the father in "Dear Ruth" will long be remembered, is another. Miss Joan Kullman, veteran property and technical crew worker, who made her debut in the summer session, will carry one of the leading roles.

For once, Dick Airhart won't be a doctor in a Player production. Airhart, who has adopted the Players as his main hobby, started out as a doctor in "Ten Little Indians" given last February. Airhart adopted the professional attitude again for "Peter Grimm" and was "drafted" once more for the doctor in "Suspect." This time, Dick will play an amusing role of a tax collector.

E. D. (Ed) Gibson, serving his second year as president of the Players, and one of the most familiar figures in the group will appear in a "bit" part. Gibson appeared in "January Thaw," "Three's a Family" and in "Junior Miss."

Another technical crew worker who made his debut last summer in the festival is Irving Bookatz who has a supporting role. J. H. Ellison, who appeared in "January Thaw" finishes the list of veteran players.

Curtain time for the show is 8:15 p. m. Season ticket holders will be admitted on their ticket stubs. Individual tickets may be purchased either at the Mansfield-Leland hotel or at the box office.

The play is under the direction of Burns Kattenberg, assisted by Mrs. Trudy Clark.

UNION TRUSTEE DIES

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Austin Shaffer, 55, was found dead yesterday in the Timken local headquarters of the CIO United Steel Workers. Shaffer, a trustee of the union, apparently died of monoxide gas fumes, police said.

Actor Finds His Son After Eighteen Years

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Will Kaufman, stage actor and screen character player, learned on a movie set the whereabouts of a son he has not seen in 18 years. The discovery was considerably more dramatic than the scene Kaufman was about to play.

In chatting with Vince Di Girolamo, wardrobe master on the picture ("Illegal Entry"), Kaufman learned that Di Girolamo and a score of other Hollywood wardrobe men have been corresponding for six months with a Renald Kaufman in Berlin, Germany.

The wardrobe men are members of Costumers' Research, Inc., Di Girolamo explained, and they have been sending Renald food packages in exchange for valuable European volumes on costume designs dating back to medieval times. Renald is an actor.

Di Girolamo showed Kaufman a picture of the Berlin theater group, and Kaufman recognized his son. He has now posted $500 with the immigration service, and hopes to get Renald into the United States.

The elder Kaufman said he came to America 18 years ago, following a divorce. The former wife was given custody of Renald, and mother and son thereafter dropped contact with him, he said.

Change Hits Juke Jackpot

Warbler Switches to Corn— And Reaches a Lot of Ears

CHICAGO—(AP)—Evelyn Knight switched to corn, and the juke box trade is eating it up.

The blonde singer changed from one type of song to another in no more time than it takes to change a hair-do.

She was in New York one day last fall when she got a call from Jack Kapp, head man of a record firm (Decca). The conversation, as she recalls it, went like this:

"How long are you going to be in town?" he asked.

"Be in the studio bright and early to record."

"Record what?"

"I'll tell you when you get here."

The next day Miss Knight had her first look at "A Little Bird Told Me." She gave it a quick look, sang it and left to keep an engagement in Boston.

"I never had done that kind of tune before," Miss Knight says. "It was a complete switch. It was pure corn. Kapp thought it would go great guns. I didn't."

She was wrong. By the middle of January about 1,250,000 records had been sold.

"Now trying for 1,500,000," Kapp wired recently. "If it keeps going," he added, "it should top sales on any record made by a female vocalist."

Miss Knight was in a sort of high bracket, gold plated rut until Columbus Day, 1948, when she and corn discovered each other in the recording studio.

"A Little Bird" put her in the running for the title of queen of the juke boxes. The song was No. 1 on recent lists of popular records compiled by two show business publications. (Variety, Billboard.)

The switch in her style and fortunes brought her a flood of offers and a contract to start a network television show March 6.

Actress Tries All Types of Gambling

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Barbara Stanwyck is really a gambling lady in "The Lady Gambles." Roulette isn't enough. She plays blackjack, dice, poker, the horses, chuck-a-luck and "the gentleman's game," faro.

As her luck runs out, she's reduced to dice shooting on billiard tables, marked off with chalk.

Choice of Film Title Brings Dispute

By HOWARD C. HEYN

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—A studio is having a time with the Johnston office over use of the word "hell" in a film title.

The dispute has a background typically Hollywoodian.

Sixteen years ago it was common belief among producers that no picture containing the word in its title ever lost money. They cited "Hell Divers," "Hell's Angels," and many others.

Then, in 1934, the movie industry voluntarily undertook to censor itself—after a wave of indignant protest from theatergoers One of the rules laid down by the Hays office (as the policing agency was then called) prohibited the use of "titles which are salacious, indecent, obscene, profane and vulgar."

★

The word "hell" has been taboo ever since. But some months ago William Elliott, a western star at Republic studios, decided to produce a picture of his own, in collaboration with writers Stuart and Dorrell McGowan. Elliott starred in it, with Marie Windsor, and the film is now finished. The other day they announced its title: "Hellfire."

Almost immediately the Johnston office began clearing its collective throat in a manner most ominous. Elliott held firm. The title was chosen, said he, not because it contained the word "hell," but rather because the entire story was inspired by the Biblical quotation: "Man by his misdeeds kindles his own hellfire."

The film parallels the quotation closely, and thus there is nothing profane about its title, Elliott maintains.

The Johnston office finally agreed to consider his argument, and most of Hollywood is waiting to see if the incident provides the first crack in the stiff front of movie self-control.

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Who really takes the chances in movie making?

Carpenters from Universal-International studios spent a day constructing a camera platform outside a 13th story window of the California bank building in downtown Los Angeles. The window itself was the only exterior anchorage.

EASY PROCESS — Application of flourine for protection of teeth against decay is an easy, quick process. Sally Stevens, 12, is shown taking a treatment in her second series. The enamel-hardening chemcal is being sprayed on by Miss Joyce Greenawalt, dental hygienist in the office of Dr. Richard Acomb. Sally, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Stevens, 535 Maple street, can expect 40 per cent less decay in her teeth because of the treatments.

New Methods, Drugs Ease Children's Fear of Tooth Treatments

Modern Dental Science Overcoming Pain 'Goblin'

By MARGUERITE MILLER

It's Tommy's first trip to the dentist.

Tommy walks in, meets the dentist, sits down in a big chair that revolves under a network of machinery on extension arms, and breathes a whiff of pleasant-smelling gas.

A minute and a half later—with baby tooth gone—he climbs bright and smiling out of the chair and skips out the door.

The jokesters have lost a victim: dentistry now is often as painless as a haircut.

★

Caricatured for decades as the perpetrators of untold agonies wrought by forceps and drill, the quietly-suffering guardians of the bicuspids are playing their trump cards:

Comfort of the patient—through use of pain-killing drugs for both extractions and fillings—is the new by-word of the profession.

Prevention of dental diseases by the newly-approved fluorine is being emphasized rather than repair of damage caused by neglect.

Orthodonistry, a dental science by which malformation of teeth and jaws is corrected by the use of braces, is giving new hope for a child's social success and physical well-being.

And last, child psychology, heretofore a separate entity to the dental code, is being widely practiced as an inducement for the cooperation of child patients.

★

On the eve of the National Children's Dental Health Week, Dr. R. B. Moyer, secretary of the Mansfield Dental society, maintains that "many children's teeth could be saved at an earlier age if the painless method is used.

"Our biggest obstacle in treating children is overcoming the fear built up from child-talk."

"In the new painless method, the child never knows what is being done or that there is any pain connected with dentistry. He doesn't fear pain in the dentist's chair because he has never known pain."

Dr. Moyer, who has been treating children for years, has adopted the use of ethyl chloride gas as a sort of "shock absorber." Say a child is making his first trip to the dentist. Before he has time to take notice of needle, drill or forceps, he is given a whiff of the gas which lasts approximately a minute and a half.

During this time, the dentist and his assistant are able to extract a tooth or to inject nerve-deadening drugs. If a tooth is to be pulled, the child wakes up and finds the tooth gone without pain. If the tooth is to be drilled, the child has not seen the needle for the injection.

Dr. William E. Baird, chairman of the local observance of the dental health week, believes that the "biggest advancement in dentistry has been in the new anesthetics."

One of the best and latest anesthetics, according to Dr. Baird, is procaine hydrochloride, an improvement on novocain, the trade name for procaine anesthetic which has become widely known as a painkiller.

"Dentistry has progressed along with other lines of medicine but the public has not been educated to the new developments. In other words," Dr. Baird continued, "the public relations end of the profession has bogged down when it should serve as a means of letting the people know what is being done for their benefit."

One outstanding example of "letting the people know" has been the nation-wide publicity on the worth of sodium fluoride as a combatant of tooth decay. About two years ago, scientists became interested when residents of certain localities in Texas never had to have a tooth filled. It was found that both water and soil in the territory had quanities of sodium fluoride and that the presence of the mineral salt was responsible for the healthy teeth.

The U. S. Department of Public Health Service stepped in on the investigation and heralded the discovery. Mansfield children can now receive the fluorine treatments and look forward to healthier teeth.

Dr. Richard Acomb, one of the many Mansfield dentists giving the treatments, says that tests run on fluorine showed "a decrease in decay of 40 per cent in groups of 100 persons."

All tests run so far, Dr. Acomb said, have been on children. Nothing as yet has been proven as to the worth of treatments on adults.

"It is believed that the sodium fluoride combines with the enamel and increases the hardness of the enamel," Dr. Acomb remarked. Tests have shown that four treatments are best, applied during the early life of the child. The first treatment is applied at three years, the second at seven years to protect the six-year molars and the third and fourth at 10 and 14 years."

Treatments with fluorine in Dr. Acomb's office are given by Miss Joyce Greenawalt, one of the few dental hygienists in the city. The treatment begins with cleaning the teeth, then drying the teeth by an air spray and finally spraying the fluorine on and between the teeth.

Dr. W. F. Wilson, one of three practicing orthodonists in the city, says that probably 30 per cent or more Americans have malocclusion. According to recent findings at the University of Michigan, 85 per cent of malocclusion has been found to be inherited; the other 15 per cent is caused by childhood habits, such as breathing through the mouth, adenoids or by sucking the thumb or tongue.

Entirely through the use of pressure braces, either on the teeth or the jaw bones, the most crooked teeth can be drawn into line and the jaw bone spread and reformed to accommodate the teeth.

"Poorly developed teeth and jaws can inhibit the normal growth and development of the body," maintains Dr. Wilson. If the case is extreme, the tongue is forced back into the mouth and the body cannot receive the proper amount of oxygen for the development of the chest and lungs."

★

Worth of the reforming of jaws or straightening of crooked teeth, not only physically but mentally, was brought out by Dr. Wilson in two case histories he cited from his own files.

Case A was a typical "wall flower" who assumed a reticent nature because he was conscious of his peg teeth.

"He always held his hand in front of his mouth if he laughed," the doctor related, "and most of the time he talked through his teeth, pulling his lip down so that his teeth would not be noticed.

Case A came to Dr. Wilson while in high school. Through the use of pressure braces on the teeth the peg teeth slowly disappeared as they were drawn together. Now in college, the youth has dropped all his former withdrawing mannerisms and has become one of the most popular in his class.

Case B was more serious. The youth was unable to get into the service because his teeth were so crooked that only two molars matched when the jaws were brought together for chewing. Plagued with digestive disorders which became steadily more acute, the youth was urged by his physician to have his teeth straightened. One look at the mouth and Dr. Wilson knew not only the steeth but also the jaw would have to be reformed.

Now, three years later, the youth has all molars matching and is finally in service.

"It makes a great change in the individual," Dr. Wilson said, "when a person knows his teeth are good looking. But correction must be started when a child is young so that the face and lips can adjust to the correction.

FIRST TRIP A SOCIAL SUCCESS — There were no tears or whimpering when four-year-old Tommy Wolford climbed into the dentist's chair last week for the first time. He was too busy looking at the Mickey Mouse tooth brush the pretty dental assistant gave him. For that yum-yum expression, notice top picture as Tommy takes the brush from Miss Eleanor Brinning. Dr. E. M. Oswalt takes his time in getting Tommy acquainted with the office before beginning the work. Then, fist still clutching the tooth brush, Tommy submits to a whiff of pleasant smelling gas which puts him "out" for approximately a minute and a half. During that time, drilling on Tommy's tooth begins after the nerve-deadening drug has been injected into the gums. Notice that Tommy still holds Miss Brinning's hand. First trip over without any sort of pain, Tommy shakes hands with Dr. Oswalt—his new friend. Because of the gas Tommy never saw the needle used for the pain-deadening injection nor had time to examine the drill. His first trip has been a painless and pleasant experience.

Amusing Books Top New List

Library Gets Volumes By Thurber, Cerf

Books that consider the lighter side predominate in the list of new non-fiction which will be released Monday at the Mansfield Public library.

"THE BEAST IN ME" is a collection of pieces by the inimitable James Thurber. Regular readers of this author's works will have read many of them, but will be glad to find them again in more permanent form. There are four short stories, a long report on soap opera, and a selection of articles from the New Yorker's "Talk of the Town".

"IT GIVES ME GREAT PLEASURE" is Emily Kimbrough's humorous account of her lecture tour across the country. Miss Kimbrough is the co-author with Miss Cornelia Otis Skinner of "OUR HEARTS WERE YOUNG AND GAY". Even in the most trying circumstances, her old gaiety does not desert her. The illustrations are by Helen Hokinson, a very happy combination of author and artist.

"AFFAIRS OF DAME RUMOR", by David J. Jacobson, is a survey of rumor as a technique to spread misinformation in religion, race relations, politics, business or war.

The book describes the effect of false rumors on the events of history since the beginning of recorded time.

Other non-fiction:

MINK BOOK. Hodgson: SWITZERLAND: TRAVELLER'S ILLUSTRATED GUIDE, Faber; WHAT TO MAKE FOR CHILDREN; INSIGHT AND OUTLOOK, Koestler; STRANGE BEDFELLOWS, Ryerson and Clements: GREATEST STORY EVER TOLD, Ousler: SEARCH FOR A SOUL, Bottome.

On the fiction list are:

THE GOLDEN NET, a first novel by Ruby Virginia Redinger. This book will have special local interest because its author is an Ohio woman, and she has chosen as the background for her story a small Ohio college. The action centers around lovely young Dr. Marcia Anderson, a newcomer to the faculty. The frustrations and emotions of the group do not make for particularly pleasant reading, but the strong character of Prof. Paul Grant finally helps Marcia through to a solution of her own emotional problems.

A SEED IN SPRING, by Edward Thompson, is a story of the country around Pine Bluff, Ark., where cotton is king. The focus is on the Jordon family: unbending old Tom; young Tom, who elopes with a married woman: and Richard who sacrifices his lawyer's career to rescue the plantation and finds unexpected compensations in the life.

A GODDESS TO A GOD, by John L. Balderston and Sybil Balitho, is an imaginary correspondence between Cleopatra and Julius Caesar. Based on sound scholarship, the book humanizes Cleopatra and Caesar, but at the same time leaves them their historic stature. The letters are witty and poetic and never sentimental.

Other fiction:

HIGH HOLIDAY, Norris; FAIR HEAVENS, Jefferson; WHERE'S MR. CHUMLEY, Truss.

Covering the Younger Set

Just Ask Ann

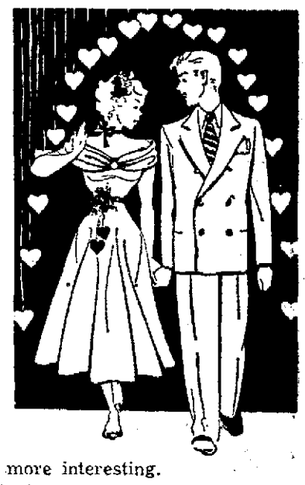
"Heart's-and-flowers" season has rolled around again. Perhaps a shy boy with a lacy red heart will slip it to his gal during the class change.

A valentine party is THE party of the year for teenagers. Girls can dress up in their most romantic date dresses, put on their best lovable manner and even act coy.



If you do have plans for just such a party, be sure to do everything up in the hearts-and-flowers way. Invitations, favors and decorations all should be set in the love mood.

A fun-game which also is intriguing for a Valentine's party is a quiz. You can make it a great big production or a simple one such as setting a time limit on guessing romantic figures of history and mythology, beginning with the letters V-A-L-E-N-T-I-N-E.

Here are some examples: Viola (Shakespeare's Twelfth Night), Anthony (Marc), Leander (Greek legend), Edward (Windsor), Nelson (Lord), Tristan, Isolde, Napoleon, Elizabeth (Browning). It's really not as simple as it looks, which makes the game all the more interesting.

* * *

College students aren't the only ones to be affected by the mid year break. Senior high students had to adjust themselves to their new schedules also. . . . We see Diana Zerbach and Dave Harding traveling the halls together again. . . . Ah, yes, just about this time of year that look enters the eyes of senior girls at M.H.S. They begin wondering and worrying just who will be with whom at the senior prom. . . .

* * *

With the snow and all, last week, tobogganing parties were riding high. Marty Shiplet, Johnny Corcoran, Pat Jackson, Harry Osbun, Gene Greisbach and Shirley Hill were present at one, while Pat Sharrock, Dorothy Zediker, Mike Gruber and Wimp Miller held one a little later. . . . A pleasant surprise came to the seventy-five seniors who took the scholarship tests Friday. They lasted three periods and at the end, Mr. Stout brought a nice shiny half dollar around for each student. It seems that this year the board of education is going to pay for the tests instead of having the ones who are taking them pay the fifty cents. . . .

* * *

Take note, Ed Demyan. Joan Landis has been looking over those heart-shaped boxes trying to decide which one she would like her valentine to bring to her. . . . George Cadigan was sporting a pair of gray and red trousers Thursday. . . . Congratulations go to Dick Van Voorhis and Martha Shiplet. They are the co-chairmen for the prom. . . .

* * *

Couples seen in the halls—Lou Ann Mosberg and Paul Hammond, Linda Shelton and Charles Tuttle. . . . The students enjoyed an assembly Tuesday morning. They were entertained by a mountain climber. . . . Last week all the talk in the halls was concerned with the Mansfield-Ashland game. The boys didn't disappoint the M.H.S. fans. They won, 43-41. . . .

If you've been thinking about a menu for that party, here are a few suggestions. Be sure and prepare everything in advance. Chicken a la king or spaghetti can be all set for reheating. You can buy or make heart-shaped pastry containers for the chicken dish. Put strips of pimiento across the top. Tomato rarebit is a good alternative but it takes a little more time to reheat properly. Punch should be a good red one, made with cranberries or grape juice. A heart-shaped raspberry gelatin dessert with a border of whipped cream is tasty and appropriate.

Okay, kids, I've given you some hints for a party, now go to it and have fun!

—By ANN SCHOENMAN

Twenty-four members were in attendance for the business session conducted by Mrs. J. E. Smith, president.

"Art in Wallpaper" was the topic chosen by Mrs. Ray J. Hammer for the afternoon's program. She gave the history of wallpaper when it first started in England, Holland and France. In 1765 the business was brought to America. Philadelphia was the first city in this country where wallpaper was produced.

Fire Codes Cut Hazards, Slash Costs

Use of Tested Materials Allowed

American families will be considerably safer from fire in homes built in the future as a result of marked progress made during the past year in the drafting of basic building laws, it was stated today by the Construction Research Bureau, New York clearing house for building information. New homes likewise may cost as much as 15 per cent less wherever the suggested laws are adopted.

Faced with a steadily rising fire loss, which in 1948 reached an all-time record of $711,114,000 or nearly 75 per cent more than the entire estimated property damage in Great Britian during two years of blitz warfare, municipal officials and fire prevention experts have intently sought ways to make American homes and buildings safer.

MODEL CODES PREPARED

In the past few weeks, two comprehensive model building codes, drafted primarily with fire-safety in mind and with great ultimate benefit to homeowners, have been distributed throughout the country.

One was prepared by the Building Officials Conference of America, the other by the National Board of Fire Underwriters. Both are "performance codes," allowing builders greater choice of materials and construction methods as long as they are within safe standards for strength, stability and fire-resistance.

MONEY-SAVING FACTORS

Buyers and builders of new homes in communities adopting either code will save money through this provision. Most existing codes permit only specified materials, do not recognize new materials nor fire-safe features of old ones.

The Building Officials code states that walls in one and two-family homes can be of any material that will withstand fire for 45 minutes; and for 90 minutes in multi-family structures. Full-thick mineral wool insulation in a wall is recognized in the code as meeting these requirements. Most existing codes specify costly masonry for such fire-safety.

Other laws require outer walls to be a foot thick; the BOCA code says eight inches is enough It also permits spacing wall studs 48" apart instead of the now generally-required 16"; permits less expensive plumbing, electric wiring, foundations.

Use of this code would cut home building costs 15 per cent, its sponsors say, by allowing new materials and construction techniques. Communities can adopt it at virtually no expense, since the cost of preparing an adequate local law is eliminated.

Rates Higher On Interest

Mortgage interest rates which are rising slightly in some sections of the country are not expected to materially increase the monthly payments on new homes nor put a brake on home purchases. In most cases the new, higher rates are still 1 or 2 per cent lower than pre-war rates. Families with old mortgages will not be affected since the higher rates apply only to new loans.

A rise of ½ of 1 per cent is the generally accepted figure, it is reported by the Construction Research Bureau, New York clearing house for building information. This means only a 28-cent increase in monthly payments on each $1,000 of a 25-year mortgage drawing 4½ instead of 4 per cent; 26 or 27 cents on shorter-term, higher interest loans.

Where monthly payment on principal and interest is now $52.80 on a $10,000 25-year 4 per cent mortgage, the payment on new loans written at 4½ per cent would be $55.60; payments rise from $63.30 on a 4½ per cent 20-year loan to $66.60 for a 5 per cent 20-year mortgage.

Lending institutions say that increased costs of doing business make necessary a slightly higher interest rate, and in many areas lenders are reported declining 4 per cent loans, the rate set by the Veterans Administration. In 1948, 4 per cent GI loans accounted for only one in every ten new small home mortgages, compared with one in four in 1947.

WINTER SCENE—The neat little house in the picture above looks almost real snuggled down in a winter blanket of snow. But it's only a cardboard model, as shown by Miss Elaine Mash, 645 South Diamond street, in the picture at right. The top photograph was printed in reverse, giving the appearance that the houses are reversed in design. In actuality, the same cardboard model was used in both photographs.

Models Show How Finished Houses Look

Beginning today, The Sunday News-Journal will present a series of house designs for which small-scale cardboard models are available, in addition to the complete building plans.

Purpose of the models is to give prospective home builders opportunity to see in advance what the general appearance of the house would be after they have found a design and floor plan which seems to suit their needs.

Few persons are able to visualize the exterior of a house from building plans.

The model used in the photographs above is made from a design of which the floor plan and details will be shown at a later date. Design No. 1, also shown on today's building page, is the first of the series.

The plans, assembled by the Scale Model Home Planning company of Detroit, have been secured from leading architects throughout the nation.

Careful Planning Cuts Cost Of Desired Changes In Home

The interior of any house, new or old, usually needs some changes after its new owner lives in it for a short time and members of the family discover that it is not completely adapted to their living habits.

There are many ways to improve comfort and convenience, but unless the home-owner carefully plans the changes in advance, costs can rise rapidly. Many improvements can be made by the owner himself if he is handy with paint and tools.

Storage shelves, cabinets and closets must be planned for greatest use of space. Wall jogs at chimney corners are ideal for bookshelves. A corner cupboard in the dining-room is a good space-saver, since space in room corners is often overlooked.

A linen closet extending from floor to ceiling need be no larger than 18 by 24", such an area usually being available in the corner of a hall.

A welcome addition to most kitchens is a wide, hinged shelf which will drop from the wall and serve as a desk. A narrow shelf above it can be used to store cookbooks and a telephone extension.

The simple operation of rehanging doors so that they will swing in a different direction will often add several square feet to a room's area, give more wall space for furniture.

Small Home Design Number 1

By DEAN H. ROBINSON

This small, two bedroom home has been especially designed to combine economy and convenience in living. There is an old saying that when building a home every time you go around a corner it costs $500, so the oblong shape of this home holds the construction costs at a minimum.

The scale model shows this home constructed of brick veneer, whitewashed with a red tint showing through with natural cedar shingles. The shutters are blue and there is a salmon pink door. All of the small windows on the house are shuttered. This home would look equally attractive if constructed of brick, cinder block or wood siding. The built-in flower box under the picture window presents an opportunity for an attractive floral display.

The front entrance leads directly into a vestibule with an ample coat closet. This provides a place to collect the dirt which is always brought into a house, and it also prevents cold winds from blowing directly into the living room each time the front door is opened.

The living room is quite large for a small home. The picture window in the living room, and the one in the dinette, plus the open planning of these two rooms add further to the pretentious appearance one notices upon entering this home. The natural fireplace in one end of the living room provides a pleasant corner for cozy winter evenings.

There are two bedrooms downstairs and both have cross ventilation and large wardrobe closets with sliding doors. The elimination of swinging closet doors allows more room along the walls in a small home. The bath is compact and provides a closet for the storage of linen.

The upstairs provides space for two more bedrooms, or one bedroom and a sewing or all purpose room, but this part of the house could be finished at a later date, reducing the first cost of construction.

The basement could be made any size the owner desired but the building plans show the basement under the entire house and this provides ample room for a laundry, heater and recreation room. The basement steps lead directly to the side service door, making it easier to carry laundry and other bulky items up and down the basement stairs. The landing at the top of these basement stairs also leads directly into the kitchen.

The kitchen is designed to save as many steps as possible. There is a window over the sink with a shelf which could be used for potted plants which help to make this work center gay and colorful. There is another window over the space that could be used for a work table and next to the refrigerator there is a closet for brooms, mops and other cleaning equipment. An ironing board could be built into the wall next to one window to let down in front of the sink.

Complete building plans for this home, as well as an exact scale model in full color are available for this home at $7.00 a set, or additional building plans only at $2.50 a set. There is also a plan book showing pictures and floor plans of all 26 of the small homes in this series

Small Shrub Use Outlined

Dwarf trees or low-growing shrubs are best for landscaping the plot around a low ranch-style house. Evergreens should grow no higher than the window sill, and a variety chosen that will spread its foliage, not grow slender and spiked.

Dwarf varieties last a generation or more, do not shut light out of the rooms nor destroy the effect of picture windows. Ordinary evergreens outgrow their positions within 10 years, require annual pruning.

A normal flowering shrub requires a space 5 feet across; dwarf variety 3 feet. Three plants of either type in 15 linear feet are enough. Overplanting on a small plot with a large number of varieties gives a crowded effect.

Choose symmetrical, slow-growing plants and avoid freak color; dark green is best. Plants which seed abundantly require yearly removal of new seedlings.

Bellville-Ontario Contest Tops

Three Fives Can Tie for Loop Crown

Speculation about Friday's upcoming Bellville - Ontario game shared interest yesterday with the announcement of the dates for the drawings for the Richland county tournament.

Boyd Robinson, county school superintendent, revealed that drawings for the county joust will be made Saturday Feb. 19 in the county offices. The tournament is set for Feb. 22, 23, 24, and 26 at Senior high school.

Either three or four teams will be seeded, Robinson said, to insure that the best teams in the county advance to the district joust in Bucyrus.

TWO MORE WEEKS

Two weeks of important play remain on the regular schedule, however, and the top three teams will give no thought to the tournament until the county race is settled.

Main wheel around which the race revolves is the game set for Friday night on the Bellville court between Harry Regula's Blue Jays and Dick Casad's Ontario Warriors.

Ontario looked to be a certainty for the county title until beaten by Lexington Friday but now can be tied by one or two teams or even beaten out altogether.

Bellville is only one game off the pace and needs only a victory to deadlock the Warriors. With one other game remaining on the schedule, either team could then win or tie.

Bellville is host to Lucas a week from Friday while Ontario entertains Union.

STILL IN RACE

Lexington, the third team still in the race, has the remote possibility of getting to the top only by a three-way tie. Should the Minutemen win their remaining games, Ontario lose both, and Bellville lose to Lucas, then Lexington, Bellville, and Ontario would all tie.

Lexington plays Shiloh at home Friday and invades Plymouth next week.

Other games set for Friday night send Lucas to Union and Plymouth to Butler.

Just as close as the championship race is the battle for scoring honors between Ontario's Howard Sunnucks and Plymouth's Desmond Donnenwirth.

Sunnucks still leads by one point but lost valuable ground Friday when he scored only 10 points while Donnenwirth was racking up 17. Lucas' Jack Stephenson slipped into third place with 138 points but has no chance of overtaking the two leaders. Stephenson has played in only ten games while the other two have been in 12.

3 NYC Clubs Sign Players

NEW YORK —(AP)— All three New York major league baseball clubs came up with signed contracts yesterday as pitchers Andy Hansen and Clint Hartung of the Giants, pitcher Bob Porterfield of the Yankees, and catcher Bruce Edwards of the Brooklyn Dodgers agreed to terms.

Signing of Hansen and Hartung, both righthanded pitchers, left the Giants with only one unsigned player. He is catcher Walker Cooper with whom Manager Leo Durocher is scheduled to confer in Missouri next week.

Mangrum Leader In Tucson Golf

TUCSON, Ariz. — (AP) — Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago, Ill., "salvaged" a 68 from what he called a "bad" round of golf, to hang on to a two-stroke lead over the field yesterday at the end of the third round in the $10,000 Tucson open with a record 12-under par 198.

In posting his third straight sub-par round over the par 70, level 6,500-yard El Rio Country club course, the ex-GI shattered a record for 54 holes of 199 strokes. This mark twice had been fired by Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif., and tied last year by South Africa's Bobby Locke.

OFFENSIVE ACE—Center Dick Dill is the key man in offense of the Lexington Minutemen which handed Ontario its first defeat of the season Friday. Dill is among the top five scorers in the county. (News-Journal Staff Photo.)

Fritz Howell's Sports Chatter....

(Ohio AP Sports Editor)

COLUMBUS—Bits of this and that from here and there!

Along about Feb. 14, when Ohio State university announces its appointees to football coaching staff vacancies, don't be surprised if they are:

"Chuck" Thackera, Hamilton high school mentor, as the new boss of the Buckeye junior varsity;

And Ernest R. (Ernie) Godfrey, now in his 20th year on the staff, as freshman coach.

Thackera's high school teams have dropped only two games in the last three years. At Grandview Heights in 1946 he lost only to Upper Arlington; in 1947 at the same school he was undefeated, and at Hamilton last fall he dropped only one.

Godfrey, who came over from Wittenberg in 1929 to help the late Sam Willaman, has stayed on through the regimes of Willaman, Francis Schmidt, Paul Brown, Carroll C. Widdoes, Paul Bixler and Wesley Fesler.

★

AND WHILE on the subject of coaching changes, there's a pretty fair chance that Miami university's new top man may come from the professional ranks.

The best tip is that Fritz Heisler, who has been with Paul Brown since back in the old Massillon high school days, has the inside track for the Redskin berth. Brown says Heisler is one of the country's best football brains, and Miami is Paul's alma mater.

With Widdoes taking over at Ohio university, Sid Gillman at Cincinnati, and Heisler a distinct possibility at Miami, you may find hordes of Buckeye scholastic talent flocking to those schools—enough top-flight gridders to put the already-rugged Mid-American conference right up there near the top.

★

SHORT STUFF: Ohio's high school athletic board of control for the first time has a coach among the members. He's Dewey Bohyer, director of athletics at Marion high school. James C. Wilson of Mt. Pleasant is another newcomer. In the past the board has been made up of superintendents and principals.

The high school state swim meet has been shifted from March 4-5 to March 11-12 at OSU's natatorium. District meets are Feb. 25-26 except in the central area where the date is Feb. 21.

Dayton's district basketball tournament will be televised this year—first time in history.

The high school association and the Western Lawn Tennis association have a one-day clinic for all coaches on tap April 9 at Kenyon college, with Capt. H. A. Leighton of the association, and Kenyon Coach Lloyd Budge, as instructors.

Consolidation of the southeastern, eastern and central district tennis teams into a single qualifier for the state meet is in the offing, with the meet headed for Muskingum college. The three districts had a total of 10 teams last year. The eastern and southeastern golf teams—eight of 'em—may be combined in another single qualifier.

Fenn In Squeak

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Free styler Bob Busbey won three events for Fenn yesterday as his team squeezed by swimmers from Slippery Rock college of Pennsylvania 38-37. Busbey won the 100,220 and 400-yard free style events.

George Guerr, Michigan State's graduating backfield star, has been named assistant alumni director at the school.

Larry Doby Signs Tribe For 1949

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Centerfielder Larry Doby signed his 1949 contract after seeing Bill Veeck in New York, the Cleveland Indians' front office announced yesterday.

While the Indians' prexy is on his current eastern trip he is expected to talk contract terms with Bob Feller, also in New York, and negotiate with Sam Zoldak, of Brooklyn, and Catcher Jim Hegan of Lynn, Mass.

PAPISH IN FOLD

Business Manager Rudie Schaffer also reported that Frank Papish, a hurler acquired from the Chicago White Sox last month, had sent in his signed contract.

Of the Tribe's training camp roster of 39, ten have completed their contracts. They include Manager Lou Boudreau, Thurman Tucker, Mike Tresh, Bobby Wilson, Al Rosen, Don Black, Russ Christopher and Early Wynn.

Schaffer said Doby, who lives in Paterson, N. J., "was satisfied from the beginning. He just wanted to see Bill."

DiMaggio Holds Out for Baseball's Biggest Salary

Tygers and Bucyrus Cast as Favorites

Asks Two Years at $170,000

NEW YORK — (AP)—The Joe DiMaggio "holdout" campaign continues with a third showdown conference scheduled for Monday after failure of the Yankee Clipper and the New York Yankee Ball Club to reach an agreement.

"We met Friday night and discussed my contract," said DiMaggio. "Each side made counter proposals but we couldn't get together. I wouldn't want to say anything about the terms until we get it settled.

"Monday at 11:00 a.m. we meet again at the Yankee offices. If we don't get together then, I'll leave on vacation trip to Mexico Monday night unsigned."

UNUSUAL CONTRACT

The Yankee office disclosed that President Dan Topping, General Manager George Weiss and Secretary J. Arthur Friedlund represented the club at the second salary conference. That fact that Friedlund, an expert attorney, had been called into the discussions was taken as an indication that DiMag would sign an unusual term contract.

Best guess on DiMaggio's asking price is a two-year contract for a total of $170,000. The club will go that high but wants DiMaggio to take a chance with them on a bonus attendance clause.

The DiMaggio story overshadowed other developments as baseball men crowded into town for Sunday night's 26th annual baseball writers dinner.

FELLER TALKS MONEY

Bobby Feller and his Cleveland Indians' boss, President Bill Veeck, also were talking money but they had reached no agreement. Like DiMaggio, Feller differs with the ball club on its estimate of next year's attendance. Bobby thinks the gate will drop and Veeck says he expects to draw as much as last year's all-time record.

Feller and Veeck met later last night in Hank Greenberg's apartment but again failed to reach an agreement. However, both said they were much closer to a settlement.

Marsh Samuel, Cleveland publicity director, said Feller and Veeck will hold another confab at 4 p.m. Tuesday in Cleveland.

Ohio Staters Snap Carolina Swim Streak

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ohio State stars delivered as expected to give the Buckeyes' swimmers a 43 to 32 victory over North Carolina yesterday.

Ohio's third win of the season snapped a 23-meet winning streak of the southerners. The visiting swimmers splashed in ahead in the medley relay, the 400-yard freestyle relay, and the 150-yard backstroke.

Bruce Harlan, Ohio State's Olympic diving star, won the fancy diving honors.

Buck sophomore Bob Bartels and Tom Shauer made a surprise sweep of the two top places in the 200-yard breast stroke to kill off any chance North Carolina might have had. Before this event the Bucks held only a 33-26 lead.

Norman Sper, who once held the national AAU outdoor platform diving championship, finally broke the Buckeye streak of wins by paddling in ahead of Ralph Knight in the 150-yard backstroke.

The Bucks captured first places in six of the nine events.

Dozen Teams In Cage Meet

The roster of teams in the Gold Medal basketball tournament grew to an even dozen yesterday as six more teams indicated their intention of playing.

All took out entry blanks from City Recreation director Stan Kamen and announced that they planned to make official entry early this week. The teams are: Komito's Clothes, Richland Beverage, Martin Hardware, Urschel's Insurance, and Rogers Jewelry of the City A league and Gump's of the Shelby City league.

Kamen said that he expects upwards of 25 teams by the Feb. 15 entry deadline and expressed a desire to get more Class B, Church league, and Friendly House teams in the fold.

Field House Data, Plus Stuff From The Sport Scene

By Fred Tharp
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

YESTERDAY was sectional tournament pairing time at Senior high school. . . . Of course, most of the interest was on who would play who and when. . . . But a lot of the shop talk got around to the Senior high field house which is still a couple of years away. . . . Some of the outside athletic gentry got into the guessing act with Mansfield athletic officials. . . . The guessing had to do with the common queries about size, location, facilities, uses, etc. . . . But it seems most of the things in regard to the field house will be decided by that ol' debil money. . . . Some $250,000 has been set aside for the field house. . . . That seems like a good bit of "coin" but actually is only pocket money in this building of an indoor athletic palace. . . . Just how far the quarter-million will stretch is problematical. . . . Marion has over $400,000 set for its sport arena but already officials are cutting down on size of the plant because that figure just won't do. . . . If prices level off, things may be better here when officials get around to making definite plans. . . . First there must be many trips to see what other towns are doing. . . . We know that officials have talked about a dirt floor so the arena may also be used for indoor golf, tennis, baseball, track and football drills as well as the normal physical education classes. . . . There has been talk of a swimming pool, rooms for wrestling and boxing classrooms and the like. . . . But as we said MONEY will be the factor. . . . Seating guesses have ranged from 3,000 to 8,000. . . . One of the ultimate plans of the basketball side of the picture may be the scheduling of big double-headers, with Madison playing one game and Senior high the other. . . . That would mean good receipts and much needed financial help for the over-all athletic programs of the two schools. . . . It will be interesting to see the picture unfold.

★ ★ ★

CLETE KAUFFMAN, former wrestler who now resides in Columbus, seems to have the inside track on the Mansfield grunt and groan promoting situation. . . . Top gimmick in the start of mat shows here revolves around the time the National Guard Armory will become available. . . . If present plans go through, Kauffman hopes to start operations sometime in March. . . . Mansfield Madison will sport the new look in green next football season. . . . Hilltop athletic officials have already ordered new uniforms. . . . The jerseys will be green nylon with block numerals in white and Northwestern stripes in the sleeves. . . . The pants will be a two-tone effect with green nylon fronts, two-way stretch of white material in black and white piping down the sides. . . . We also understand the baseball diamond situation will ease up a bit more this summer. . . . Senior high will have a diamond at Arlin field while the 40 et 8 club plans to construct one behind its clubhouse with the American Legion Junior club as the No. 1 tenants. . . . The Ohio U. freshman basketball team has one six straight with Coach Jim Snyder alternating all 17 members of his fine-looking squad. . . . Mansfielder Shelley Swank has played in five of the games, scoring 15 points. . . . That total is ninth high on the squad.

★ ★ ★

DATE OF THE RUNNING of the 18th annual Mansfield Relays has been moved back a week. . . . Director Harry Mehock announced the change to April 23 yesterday. . . . The meet had been set for April 16. . . . 1,000 Relays' notification cards are being mailed to schools in Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky. . . . A suggestion presented by the Stuffer in Wednesday's column has been acted on by Russ Gimbel, AAU boxing commissioner in Richland, Ashland and Crawford counties. . . . We said that it would be a good idea if all fighters going to the canvas, either by a knockdown or slipping, would remain down at least eight counts. . . . The rule would further cut into the injury situation. . . . So Gimbel says it will be in effect in all amateur shows within his jurisdiction. . . . The Friendly House will try to schedule another fight show Feb. 26. . . . Matchmaker Mike Wentz will try to get Golden Glove battlers from Cleveland and Akron to oppose the F-H kings. . . . Forfeits in City basketball play are few and far between. . . . But one of the unfortunate managers was telling us what happened to his team. . . . He had to drop a game because only four players showed. . . . Here's what happened to the other members of the squad: one was taking exams at Ashland college, another was sick, a third was pressed into service as a baby sitter and the fourth went to play basketball —but with another team.

Freddies String Snapped By Lima St. Rose, 50-38

By CHARLEY STINE

GAMBIER—Lima St. Rose and a slight case of stage fright combined last night to hand Fredericktown its first defeat in 21 games before a jam-packed house of 1800 people in the Kenyon college fieldhouse.

The game was an even battle after the first seven minutes during which time St. Rose piled up a 12-0 lead. The size of the crowd and playing floor stunned the Freddies while the Lima team was all veterans of last year's state tournament play.

Fredericktown caught hold at that point and moved up to 12-5. It outscored Lima by one point in the second period to trail 29-18 at half-time.

The second half continued in the same pattern with the Freddies coming closest when Jim Ewers hit two successive long shots to make the score 32-25. Forward Bob Pearson took things in his own hands then and rang the bell with three straight goals to increase the lead 13 points. Freddies center Earl Bechtel had to sink a free throw after the final buzzer to return

Ohio State Cagers Upset Minnesota Gophers, 48-39

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio State's basketball team upset Minnesota, Big Nine leader, 48 to 39, here last night.

It was the fourth win in seven Western Conference games for the Bucks and second defeat for the Gophers against six wins.

The Buckeyes achieved their upset before a crowd of 7,078 fans at the coliseum. They outplayed a tough Minnesota team in every department and at intermission held a 29 to 23 edge over the visitors.

The Bucks dominated the whole first half, with the possible exception of one short stretch late in the period when the Gophers dropped in eight straight points to pull up from 12-24 to 20-24.

COME BACK STRONG

The Gophers came back strong in the second half and for a time it appeared they would hold the upper hand. They sliced the Buck margin to 31-29 with less than four minutes gone, thanks to two fielders by Guard Jerry Mitchell. The score continued to 35-33—Ohio State. That was the closest Minnesota ever got again to the lead.

Ohio State continued "hot" on its shooting — potting 21 of 71 tries, while the Gophers hit 17 out of 62.

Oddly enough, the Bucks showed strongest in two departments in which it had been far less than sensational previously. Minnesota's 39 points constituted the Bucks' finest defensive effort of the year — and by coincidence it came against the No. 1 defensive team in the conference.

Illinois In First

MADISON — (AP) — Illinois took over undisputed first place in the Big Nine's basketball race last night by defeating Wisconsin, 61-54, before 13,500 fans in the Badger fieldhouse.

Redskins Hire Navy Man as Pigskin Coach

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Washington Redskins hired Rear Admiral John Esten Whelchel yesterday as their head football coach.

The selection was a complete surprise.

Whelchel, who was either head coach or an assistant at the naval academy in 11 different seasons, has been out of football since 1943. He has been assigned to the Pacific.

During his stay at the navy, Whelchel served as an assistant to Gil Dobie, Bob Folwell, Bill Ingram, and Swede Larson. He was head coach at Annapolis in 1942 and 1943. In his last season there he won eight games out of nine, losing only to Notre Dame.

OUT WITH FLEET

Although Whelchel has been with the fleet for the past five years, he has kept up an active interest in football. He coached battleship, navy yard and shore station teams during that time.

Whelchel takes over a Redskin team which has been having its ups and downs during the past few seasons, mostly downs.

He succeeds Turk Edwards, who moved up to the newly-created job of executive vice president. During his three years as head coach, Edward's Redskin teams lost more games than they won, but last year's team got on the right track and finished up with seven victories and five losses in the National Pro Football league.

Joe Louis 'Take' Set at $160,000

CHICAGO —(AP)— Joe Louis has drawn a gross gate of $460,000 by engaging in boxing exhibitions the past three months, Marshall Miles, manager of the world's champion, said yesterday of this sum, the champion wrapped $160,000 around his own bank roll.

Louis plans to return to Florida next week-end to engage in more exhibitions and also make a trip to Havana and the West Indies.

Approximately 300 persons will watch the Tuesday showing on a 12 by 14 screen furnished by the Mansfield Motion Picture company. Heisler assisted Paul Brown at Massillon and Ohio State before joining the Brown staff. He has been mentioned prominently as a replacement for George Blackburn at Miami.

Louis Wiparina is in charge of the Moose lodge program.

Madison 5 Battles In First Tilt

By CHARLEY STINE

Mansfield Senior High and Bucyrus are rated as heavy favorites to meet in the finals of the Class A sectional tournament here March 5 as the result of drawings held yesterday at Senior high school.

Bucyrus needs only to beat Shelby and Madison to move to the finals while Mansfield was expected to win out over Galion and Ashland or Crestline by a consensus of coaches.

Madison and Bucyrus rate the honor spots in the tournament as they meet in the opening test at 8 p. m. Tuesday, March 1. It will be the only game of the night.

TWO ON WEDNESDAY

Two games will be played Wednesday with Ashland tackling Crestline at 7 p. m. and Senior high going against Galion at 8:30. Thursday will be open with semi-finals Friday and finals Saturday night.

None of the teams have met previously this year but Madison and Bucyrus are scheduled for Friday of this week at Madison. The game will give local fans a look at the tough Redmen and present some idea of just how far Madison can expect to go.

Shelby, Bucyrus, Crestline and Galion are all members of the Northern Ohio league but drew away from each other in tournament brackets.

Seeding failed to occupy its usual place of interest at the drawings as it was done on the basis of records rather than vote of coaches. Bucyrus (11-1, Ashland (10-4), Mansfield (10-5), and Shelby (8-7) were seeded. These four teams then drew for positions on the bracket with the others following in the draw according to their records

SHELBY DRAWS BYE

Shelby drew the only bye and will meet the Bucyrus-Madison winner at 7 p. m. Friday.

Other discussion at the three hour session attended by two to four representatives of each school concerned tickets and other details.

Distribution of tickets took up nearly two hours of the meeting. The plan outlined by the district board set up the tournament center for an equal share of tickets with the participating teams but was amended after much discussion.

One hundred tickets will be sold in Mansfield for the Wednesday and Friday sessions and 200 for the Tuesday and Saturday sessions. The remaining ducats will be divided equally among the participating teams, including Senior high and Madison.

HOLD TO 1,500

Twelve hundred tickets will be sold with an additional 300 being reserved for passes for players, coaches, school faculty, and other officials. Co-tournament managers Fred Staub and Augie Morningstar decided to hold the crowd to 1,500 to prevent overflowing into the floor.

Dinner was served to the visiting officials in the school cafeteriar following the meeting.

All tickets will be sold in advance at a time and place to be announced later.

Paul Hamblin of Sandusky and Gus Skibbie of Bowling Green were announced as tournament officials of all games.

Tournament squads were increased to 12 this year from the previous 10 set up by the Ohio High School Athletic association.

Richland County Fox Hunters Get Big Bag Saturday

Richland county fox hunters participated in their "best drive" of the season yesterday, bagging nine foxes and three hawks.

Some 245 men took part in the six roundups in the Newville area.

Bringing down foxes were: Emory Smith, Fred Schneret, Paul Stone, Lawrence Reed, F. B. Welsh and Carl Maul jr., all of Mansfield; DeWight Forbes, Newville, and James Vanello, Lucas.

Vanello was the top hunter, getting one on each of the first two roundups.

The fox hunting group has scheduled an important meeting Monday at 7:15 p. m. at the court house. Among the things to be discussed are the 1949 banquet and hunt schedule for the remainder of the year.

Next Saturday's drive will be in the Bellville section.

Mansfield Is Scheduled for One of 115 Baseball Clinics In Country

Scouts from 13 major league clubs are ready to tell managers of amateur teams how the game is played under baseball's big top.

Thirty-eight representatives of the professional game will give the "inside" details at more than 100 clinics spread over 13 states, starting Saturday.

With the state high school athletic associations and the American Legion cooperating as sponsors, week-long clinics are booked in California, Washington, Texas, Alabama, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Iowa.

The program, first of its kind, is the brain child of Bob Finch, publicity director of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, headed by George M. Trautman.

Clubs which have assigned principal scouts to the two-man teaching teams are Boston, Brooklyn, Chicago, Cincinnati, New York, Pittsburgh and St. Louis of the National league, and Cleveland, Detroit, New York, St. Louis, Washington and Boston of the American.

The first clinic is scheduled Feb. 12 in Detroit, the second Feb. 13 in El Paso, Tex., and on Feb. 14 all the teams will swing into a full week of action. Clinics open at 9 a. m. and close at 5:15, after which the two scouts conducting the affairs will move on to the next day's chores, sometimes 300 miles away.

One of the 115 clinics to be staged by the 19 teams will be held in the Mansfield Senior high school auditorium and gymnasium Feb. 16. Harry Mehock, physical education director of Mansfield public schools, is in charge of the Mansfield school.

William Bradley, Cleveland Indians scout, and Jack McLain, New York Giants ivory hunter, will conduct the Mansfield clinic. This same team will also see action in Lima, Toledo, Dayton, Columbus and Cleveland.

An earlier announcement had Bradley and two other members of the Indians' staff — Lou Boudreau and Muddy Ruel — conducting the Mansfield school. This information came from a letter signed by Laddie Placek of the Cleveland organization.

However, the official assignment came from Finch and H. M. Emswiler, Ohio high school athletic commissioner. Finch said that an attempt will be made to secure the services of some major league players to aid in the clinics.

Bradley was one of the greatest third basemen in American league history while a member of the Cleveland Indians. McLain got his playing experience in the St. Louis Cardinal organization.

Nine lectures will be included on the Mansfield program, starting at 9 a. m. and winding up at 5:15 p. m. Each of the lectures will be followed by a question and answer period. Such subjects as "Training Your Club," "Building Your Club," "Batting," "Pitching," and phases of offense and defense will be on the program.

Area coaches and managers may attend by sending a $1.00 fee to Mehock, Box 17, Mansfield. The fee will be used to defray expenses for the school.

'A' League Closes Sked On Thursday

Two championships in city basketball leagues will be decided this week, the City A loop second half title, and the first half race of the American league.

City A play comes to a close Thursday but for all practical purposes the race is expected to end Monday night when Penn Auto-Sporting Goods meets last place Yunckers. Penn needs only to win to clinch the second half bunting and earn the right to meet Ohio Sport Center for the city title Feb. 14. Sport Center won the first half title.

THREE-WAY DEAL

The American league affair is a three-way playoff between Mansfield Tire, Main Cigar and Westinghouse. Main Cigar and Westinghouse meet at 9:45 p. m. Wednesday at Senior high while the winner takes on Tire for the title at nine Thursday evening in John Simpson gym.

In addition regular sets of games will be played Monday in the American league and Wednesday in the National.

Mansfield 'Y' Girls Team Tops National Rifle Match

A Mansfield girls rifle team took first place among 723 squads throughout the country competing in a 10-shot prone match the National Rifle association announced yesterday in Washington.

The matches were fired in November but tabulation of targets on all of the teams was finished just this week. The November competition is a part of a four-months program being sponsored by the NBA. The matches are fired on local ranges and all targets are sent to national headquarters for grading.

TWO ARE PERFECT

The Mansfield girls, ranging from 15 to 19 years of age, scored 493 out of a possible 500. Beverly Hassinger and Beverly Phallen each had perfect 100s in the match fired at the Mansfield YMCA range. Other scores: Shirley Bender, 98; Frances Karas, 97, and Carnella Greer, 96.

The same girls had finished fifth in the country in 1947-48 shooting.

An "A" team from the "Y" placed sixth nationally with 908 of 1.000. Firing was done from the standing and from the prone positions.

Chargers Pacing Girls Volleyball

The Chargers hold a game-and-a-half lead in the Girls' Volleyball league, according to standings announced yesterday by the City Recreation department. Three more Wednesday nights to play remain on the schedule.

Mansfield Cagers Play Once at Home

Mansfield high school basketball teams play four games this week, but only one will be on a local court.

The Madison Rams are scheduled at Lexington Tuesday and entertain Bucyrus Friday. Mansfield Senior high does not play until the week end but then goes to Sandusky Friday night and Norwalk Saturday.

Probably the most interest can be directed to the Madison-Bucyrus battle here Friday. The game may be a preview of what will happen in the coming Class A sectional basketball tourney as the two clubs meet in the opening contest.

ONE OF CHOICES

Bucyrus is one of the favorites to cop the tourney title while Madison is the defending district champion. The Redmen have lost only once this year, Shelby having turned the trick early in the season. Since then Bucyrus has avenged the beating.

Madison has played Shelby twice, winning one and losing one.

Lexington, Richland county Class B titan, may also be tough for Coach Blaine Dowler's Rams Tuesday. Earlier in the season, Madison nipped the Minutemen, 41 to 38. However, Lexington reached its greatest heights of the season Friday in handing Ontario its first defeat of the year.

NO ROAD JINX

Having dispelled their road game jinx with victories over Fremont Ross and Ashland, the Tygers of Vern Hoffman should be able to beat both opponents this week. Mansfield now has four straight victories and a record of 10 wins and five losses for the season.

In 1948, Mansfield won over Sandusky, 44 to 40, and Norwalk 60 to 48.

The Tygers will show only twice more at home before the tournament, meeting Lorain, Feb. 15 and Canton McKinley, Feb. 25. McKinley is the last team to defeat Mansfield in the Tyger lair. The home win streak has now reached 18 straight.

Ike Williams Signs for Los Angeles Fight

NEW YORK — (AP) — Ike Williams, fighter of the year in 1948, will defend his lightweight title at Los Angeles against the No. 1 contender — Enrique Bolanos — for only 7½ per cent of the gate, to help the Costello Junior Foundation.

The 15-round bout, scheduled for Los Angeles' Wrigley field, April 21, was closed yesterday when Frank (Blinky) Palermo, Williams' manager, accepted the virtually unprecedented low percentage.

Only in wartime when champions such as Joe Louis came out of service to donate their entire purses to war relief funds have champions fought for less. Normally Ike would get between 40 aand 50 per cent for risking his crown against such a highly rated foe.

Lou Costello and Bud Abbott, the comedians, will promote the show for the benefit of the Lou Costello, Jr., Foundation. Costello, the round half of the team, says the foundation is broke and that a "for sale" sign has been posted on the premises, pending payment of an $80,000 mortgage.

The foundation provides recreation facilities for as many as 10,000 youngsters in the Los Angeles area, according to Costello. It was founded after the death of Costello's one-year-old son a few years ago.
